Warn Aliens of Property Seizure Here

CHIEF, SHERIFF CITE LAXITY ON FIREARM RULE

Declare Order to Surrender Guns, Cameras, Radios Gets Little Response.

DEADLINE FALLS MONDAY

City and County Police Heads Say They Will Impound Banned Articles Soon.

Getting little response from their order yesterday for all enemy aliens to turn in their firearms, cameras, and short-wave radios, city and county authorities warned today that the deadline is 11 p. m. Monday and the equipment must be in authorities' hands by then or the owners will face jail sentences.

Only one small camera had been turned over to police today, while Sheriff Frank E. Robinson had received nothing City and county authorities, however, said they have obtained information concerning a number of articles and expect to have them impounded soon.

The federal order authorizes police and the sheriff to confiscate materials held by aliens after the Monday night deadline. Persons of German, Italian, and Japanese birth who have not obtained their final citizenship papers must take their portable cameras, guns and explosives, and short-wave transmitters or receivers to police headquarters, sheriff's office, or to the mayors' office in villages.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said today he had obtained an opinion from the attorney general which holds that it is unlawful for an alien to transfer property to another person to avoid confiscation of it.

To help them check on compliance with the order, authorities will have an FBI list of aliens available after the Monday night deadline.

Radio repairmen in the city and county were asked today to issue written statements to aliens who have the short-wave equipment removed from their radios or put out of commission so the information can be submitted to police and the sheriff. If the receivers are not equipped for short-wave reception they do not come under the impounding order.

Every national who turns personal property over to the authorities will get a receipt for it. The equipment will be stored by the sheriff and police until they receive further orders from Washington about disposing of it.

POLICE PUZZLED

List Elyria Stabbing Death As Suicide, But Wonder.

ELYRIA —(INS)— Police today officially listed as suicide the death of Roland A. Hist, 41-year-old truck driver, whose body was found New Year's day in a woods a mile from his home after he had been missing eight hours.

Death was due to stab wounds in the heart, Coroner S. C. Ward decided, although police admitted they were puzzled because there was no hole in Hist's shirt, which was buttoned and in place when the body was found.

Members of his family said he had been ailing and the discovery of $45 in his pockets eliminated the posibility of a holdup murder.

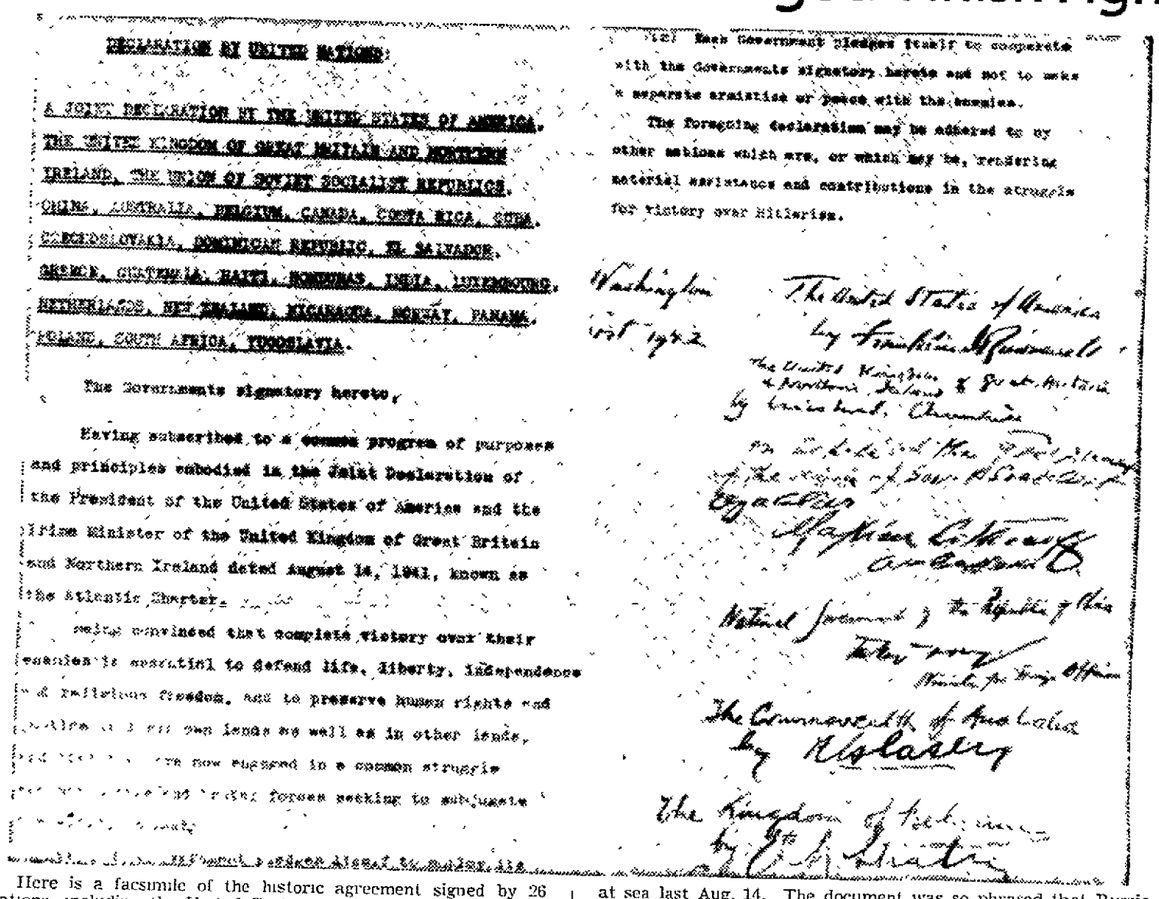
Pact In Which 26 Nations Pledged 'Finish Fight'



DECLARATION BY UNITED NATIONS:

A JOINT DECLARATION BY THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, THE UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND NORTHERN IRELAND, THE UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS, CHINA, AUSTRALIA, BELGIUM, CANADA, COSTA RICA, CUBA, CZECHOSLOVAKIA, DOMINICAN REPUBLIC, EL SALVADOR, GREECE, GUATEMALA, HAITI, HONDURAS, INDIA, LUXEMBOURG, NETHERLANDS, NEW ZEALAND, NICARAGUA, NORWAY, PANAMA, POLAND, SOUTH AFRICA, YUGOSLAVIA.

The Governments signatory hereto,

Having subscribed to a common program of purposes and principles embodied in the Joint Declaration of the President of the United States of America and the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland dated August 14, 1941, known as the Atlantic Charter,

Being convinced that complete victory over their enemies is essential to defend life, liberty, independence and religious freedom, and to preserve human rights and justice in their own lands as well as in other lands, and that they are now engaged in a common struggle against savage and brutal forces seeking to subjugate the world,

[illegible]

(2) Each Government pledges itself to cooperate with the Governments signatory hereto and not to make a separate armistice or peace with the enemies.

The foregoing declaration may be adhered to by other nations which are, or which may be, rendering material assistance and contributions in the struggle for victory over Hitlerism.

Here is a facsimile of the historic agreement signed by 26 nations, including the United States, Great Britain, Russia, the Netherlands and China, pledging a finish fight against the Axis powers and banning any separate peace. While not a formal treaty, thus not necessitating senate ratification, the pact is regarded as just as binding. The agreement binds all signatories to the Atlantic charter formulated by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain at sea last Aug. 14. The document was so phrased that Russia, while agreeing to all stipulations in the struggle against Germany and Italy, does not pledge to enter the war against Japan. Signatures visible on the facsimile at right include those of President Roosevelt, Churchill, Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian ambassador, T. V. Soong, China's minister for foreign affairs, Richard G. Casey, Australian minister of the U. S., and R. V. D. Straten, for the kingdom of Belgium.

DEALERS SLASH SALES FORCES

U. S. Ban on New Car Sales Starts Hitting Jobs In Mansfield Agencies.

The government order prohibiting sale of new cars or trucks pending establishment of a rationing system, began today to cut into the ranks of Mansfield's automobile salesmen.

Normally there are 40 licensed salesmen in the city Today, within 24 hours after announcement of the government ban on sales, that number had been pared to 20, and further curtailment was in prospect. A few will be absorbed in used car sales forces, and others who have the necessary experience may be shifted to service departments.

There are today between 300 and 350 used cars on Mansfield auto sales floors, a survey indicated. In addition, there are 200 new cars frozen to the sales floors by the government order.

Indication of the effect in Mansfield from the restriction on car sales may be gained by a study of figures from former years. In 1941 new car registrations in Richland county totalled 3,212, and 311 trucks were sold. January

Burglary Wave Hits City, 6 Being Probed

Down Town Business Places Entered But Thieves Get Only Small Loot; Shoplifter Steals Rings.

Mansfield police went to work today on the investigation of a new wave of burglaries which struck the city with the advent of the new year. Thieves broke into at least four Mansfield buildings last night, running total burglaries for the first three days of the month to six.

Police said that although four places were entered that no large amount was reported missing In December only four burglaries were reported for the entire month but robbers stole $400 from the Court hotel in an early morning hold-up on Dec. 29.

A. R. Jones, manager of the Sears, Roebuck store, told police that burglars had entered the store by way of a second-story window but that he found nothing missing when he checked counter stock.

Jones was called to the store by N. W. Minnear, merchant policeman, who found the rear door of the store unlocked. Police theorized that the burglars entered by way of the window but fled when they became scared away.

Minnear also reported to police that burglars had broken into the office of the C. D. Appleman

WORST'S OVER

Weatherman Says Cold Will Continue, But Wave Passes.

It's going to be cold again tonight and snow flurries may fill the air, but the worst of the cold wave is about over, the weatherman forecast today.

Overcast skies helped to keep the mercury from falling to a new season's low last night and the lowest temperature recorded was 19 above. By noon today it had moved up only two degrees.

Yesterday was the coldest day of the winter, the mercury failing to get above 23 degrees. The average was 21, which was 6.5 degrees below normal.

FORM CIVILIAN AIR PATROL SOON

Fliers to Meet In Mansfield Jan. 11 With State Director Of Aeronautics.

Plans for the formation of an air patrol of civilian fliers from north central Ohio, designed to release army and navy pilots from non-combatant duties, are expected to be completed when State Director of Aeronautics Earle Johnson, Ohio wing commander, meets here with a group of fliers from nine cities Jan. 11.

Announcement of the meeting was made today by James R. Harrington, commander of the Fifth group, after talking by long distance telephone to Johnson in Washington.

Purpose of the session, Harrington said, was to organize the fliers for patrol duty and to enlist civilians for ground personnel, so operations of the

County Red Cross Hits $20,000 In Emergency Drive

Mansfield and Richland county sent its war emergency fund soaring towards $20,000 today as more than $1,000 in contributions poured into the executive offices of the Red Cross since yesterday

That the $30,000 quota fixed for Richland county by national headquarters would be met and oversubscribed by next week was predicted today by W. J. Spreng, chairman of the fund-raising committee.

Urging the chapter to oversubscription, Spreng said he had received a telegram today from Norman Davis, national Red Cross chairman, stating that 1,500 chapters throughout the country had already exceeded their quotas and emphasizing the necessity of the Richland chapter raising its quota as quickly as possible.

Spreng said he would notify Davis today that the county would complete its drive by the first of next week and would "go over the top" in the amount.

The local chairman said he expected Mansfield industries to make a substantial showing next week and again requested that Richland countians send their contributions at once to the Red Cross executive offices at 11½ West Fourth street.

The Fate Root Heath Manufacturing company of Plymouth contributed $200 as an industry yesterday and announced that an employes' donation will also be made.

SEEKING SWIFT PRICE-CONTROL BILL PASSAGE

Administration Marshals Its Strength to Gain Senate Approval.

COMMITTEE SAYS O. K.

Reports Measure Without Clause That Would Regulate Wages.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Administration leaders today marshaled their forces for swift senate approval of price-control legislation, expecting to override demands for regulation of wages, control by a board instead of a single administrator, and farm bloc objections.

The legislation requested by President Roosevelt six moths ago to prevent runaway prices, inflation and speculation, cleared another major hurdle when the senate banking and currency committee unanimously reported out a strengthened house bill. The upper chamber scheduled its consideration for next Tuesday.

Major revision made in the house measure by the senate group were elimination of a board of review to pass on the administrator's decisions; inclusion of licensing provisions; broadening of the administrator's power to buy and sell commodities, and rejection of some "farm bloc" demands.

The committee provided, however, for creation of a three-member emergency court of appeals to hear protests against price orders and stipulated that licenses could only be revoked through action in state courts.

Sen. Brown (D) Mich., who guided the bill in committee, said that a "much stronger" measure was necessitated as a result of the nation's declaration of war against the Axis powers.

"The situation has greatly changed since the legislation passed the house," Brown said. "The country has shifted from a basic condition of defense to one of war."

Farm bloc senators achieved victory when the committee agreed to provisions that ceilings on farm commodities could not be established below 110

FACES DRAIN

Ohio Surplus Apt to Be Hit by Loss of Taxes.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio's $11,500,000 cushion — the officially estimated state treasury surplus—is going to lose much of its stuffing because of wartime developments, it appeared today.

Developments of the past few days indicate that the state may have to draw heavily on the fund to meet drastic tax losses in the face of priorities and restrictions on sales of new automobiles, tires and other commodities whose manufacturing facilities are needed for the war effort.

Gov. John W. Bricker thus sees borne out his contention of several months that the surplus cannot be divided among the local governments as requested by many city and county officials, observers said.

RAIL BLAMED

Train Wrecked, But Passengers Escape Serious Injury.

RICHMOND, Va. — (INS) — A broken rail was held responsible by company officials today for the wreck, nine miles south of Richmond, of the Atlantic Coast line's crack passenger train, the Miamian, enroute from New York to Miami.

No one was seriously injured when the last five cars of the 10-car train were derailed and blocked traffic on the single-track line for hours.

Anti-Aircraft Guns Beat Off 5-Hour Attack

13 Americans Killed, 35 Wounded; Three Japanese Planes Shot Down; Land Troops Continue to Resist Invaders at Batan.

BULLETIN

SINGAPORE—(UP)—Dispatches from the front tonight indicated a strong Japanese attack against British positions in the direction of the Bernam river despite the sinking of an enemy transport and four troop-filled invasion barges on the west Malaya coast.

(By Associated Press)

U. S. anti-aircraft batteries beat off a violent five-hour attack by Japanese planes upon Corregidor island fortress at the entrance to Manila, the war department said today, while on the nearby Batan peninsula, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's "last stand" army of American and Filipino troops still battled against Japanese invasion forces.

A war department communique said at least three Japanese planes were shot down in the assault on Corregidor.

Tokyo reports said Japanese warships were also attacking the island stronghold.

A war department bulletin said at least 60 Japanese bombers took part in the raid but failed to inflict material damage on the fortress.

American casualties in the attack, which took place yesterday, were listed as 13 killed and 35 wounded.

"There was a marked lessening of enemy ground attacks," the communique said.

"American and Philippine troops were consolidated in new positions, where organized resistance to Japanese attacks will be intensified."

Imperial Tokyo headquarters acknowledged that the U. S. defense forces were putting up "desperate" resistance in the Batan mountains northwest of Manila but asserted they were doomed to annihilation within a short time.

To Japanese radio listeners, a Tokyo broadcast pictured Japanese troops as having captured Manila by storm, "braving furious fire"—giving a melodramatic portrayal of the city's fall in contrast to a U. S. war department communique reporting that "all American and Philippine troops were withdrawn from the city several days ago.

According to the war department version, the Japanese simply marched into the open, undefended city without resistance, Gen. MacArthur having withdrawn his forces.

A German broadcast, quoting Tokyo dispatches, said the attack on Corregidor was intended to prevent the arrival of reinforcements for Gen. MacArthur's beleaguered troops.

The broadcast also asserted that departing U. S. transports had been bombed by Japanese planes.

SPECTRE: Hitler Now Facing Retreat Similar to Napoleon

(By Associated Press)

A German sequel to Napoleon's disastrous retreat from Russia in the winter snows of 1812 stared Adolf Hitler in the face today as Soviet troops were reported to have recaptured the historic city of Maloyaroslavets, 65 miles southwest of Moscow.

It was at Maloyaroslavets that Czar Alexander I's imperial Russian armies turned the tide of the Napoleonic invasion, compelling the French to fall back across the frozen steppelands with terrible losses

Only 20,000 of Napoleon's original army of 500,000 troops got out alive.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters complained anew of the bitter weather conditions, declaring:

"Defensive fighting in the central (Moscow) sectors continues despite intense cold."

On the same theme, the Berlin radio reported:

"In one battle on the central sector, the Bolsheviks attacked for four days and five nights without interruption. Our troops had almost no rest and this was in the severest cold and snowstorms."

Unconfirmed reports circulated in Sweden that the Germans were already building defenses along the Polish border, the jumping-off line of Hitler's attack on the U. S. S. R. last June 22

On the Soviet war front, the fall of Maloyaroslavets gave the Russians a base for exerting heavier pressure on German forces at Mozhaisk, 30 miles to the north of the Moscow-Smolensk highway, which was already being hammered by Red artillery fire.

Russian forces were officially credited with having killed 15,

AGREEMENT: Allies Setting Up Military, Economic Plans

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Spectacular military and economic agreements were in the making today between the United States, Great Britain, Russia, the Netherlands, China and their twenty-one "united" associates to batter the Axis powers into complete submission.

President Roosevelt was expected to disclose an even broader anti-Axis accord when he makes a personal appearance before congress early next week.

The dramatic announcement that 26 governments are united in a common cause to achieve "complete victory" over Hitlerism in all oceans and all continents is understood to be merely one foundation block in the war program that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and other authorized spokesmen are now plotting.

Disclosure that the recent White House conferences had resulted in an accord between 26 governments to pool all of their resources in an all-out war against the Axis electrified millions opposed to Hitlerism.

Important as this declaration of common purpose was, however, there was good reason to believe that the Roosevelt-Churchill conferences will develop even more momentous decisions.

Most immediately concerning the United States, Britain, China and the Netherlands was the situation in the Pacific, where Japan has capitalized on a treacherous attack to imperil the Philippines, Singapore, Dutch East Indies—and even Australia.

For obvious military reasons it was not expected that the "united" war council would make public

Enemy Propaganda

Dispatches and pictures from capitals of warring nations are subject to censorship. Propaganda is the motive behind most statements, especially those from capitals of enemy powers and their satellites. Don't confuse rumors, reports and claims with confirmed news.

Meet the 'Mailman' Dog Tomorrow

A Mansfield dog who daily supervises the delivery of mail in his master's neighborhood is the central character in one of the most interesting features in tomorrow's News-Journal.

And the dog has plenty of competition when it comes to arousing interest, because another story compares the Liberty Loan drives of World war I with the defense bond and stamp sales of today.

Still another feature in the Sunday edition takes readers out with the men who have front row seats at the world's greatest drama. It introduces a number of leading war correspondents and details the adventure which is their lives.

A series of five articles on basketball by Clair Bee, coach of Long Island university's perennial champions, begins tomorrow on the News-Journal sport page. Bee, whose present team holds 23 straight victories, and who compiled a record of 42 straight wins two years ago, was formerly assistant basketball coach at Mansfield high school under Coach Russell Murphy. He is regarded as one of the best basketball coaches in the country.

Sunday readers will meet their eighth Mansfield artist and another Mansfield boy scout troop. They'll also get a preview of the coming Book Fair and a picture-glimpse of its speaker. There's a pictured visit to Alaska, too, which may soon be climbing into the war headlines.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—There is now reported to be under study by Vice President Wallace and Harry Hopkins a proposal to avoid the terrible wastes and confusion of responsibility in war production program by setting up a new booper - dooper department to do all purchasing for the army, navy and allies. Some newspaper reports call it "a kind of ministry of supply."

Gen. Johnson.

Other rumored proposals are to continue voluntary enlistment along with the draft after all and to put the new 18 to 65 draft registration under a committee consisting of Secretaries Stimson and Knox and Paul McNutt instead of leaving it with General Hershey, who has done so well with previous registrations.

There is quite an undercover fight or tug of war going on among several agencies as to who shall be in charge of the classification of these new registrants.

The older tug of war continues—the one about whether "the industrialists" in government have done a fair job or whether, as some New Dealers say, they were wrong about most things and are responsible for production delays. This latter fight is a surface symptom of a deeper rift.

Although, now that we are at war, there should no longer be any distinction between New Dealers and industrialists it exists just the same. The New Dealers and labor leaders want to control war-mobilized industry.

Is there a single promise of better things in this kind of interior governmental pulling and hauling? I can't see any. To me it is just further piling of duplication of authorities on a situation which already takes the cake as the all-time classic example of confusion worse confounded.

To duplicate, or to attempt to carve out and put together under one head, the vast purchasing agencies of the many departments now in full swing is plainly folly. No single agency can spend 50 billions a year efficiently. It is not the purchasing functions of any of the separate bureaus that has caused delay and confusion.

It is the fact that there was no one in single responsibility and authority who could make those bureaus work as a team—not merely in the job of buying but in the use of all government's extraordinary war powers to speed and simplify the whole work.

A new purchasing department would paralyze our forward movement for an indefinite time and be of doubtful and unproved value even when perfected. From any more brain storms like this "Good Lord deliver us."

As General Crowder wrote in 1918, and both the president and Mr. Stimson have repeated, keeping the old whoop-la volunteer system method misses the whole point of the philosophy of the draft—that each man shall serve in that place where the government thinks it most needs him and not, as Woodrow Wilson said, where "it will most please him." This new proposal makes the whole draft argument seem hypocritical.

Putting the great new registration under a cabinet committee is an obscure reflection of the other interior fight I have mentioned—the conflicting ambition of various political groups to control the draft. It has been free from that. It should be kept clean.

As to responsibility for delays in getting into production about an equal case could be made against labor, industry and government itself. But this is no time for alibis and accusations about the past. In the future, as in the past, blame will not be due to any group or class. It will be due to confused and faulty organization and to the shortcomings of one or more individuals in all groups.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Somewhere In New York.
(A Fantastic Report From the Broadway Front.)

RUMORS, counter-rumors, suppositions and garbled reports all conspire to pound the ears and confuse the mind today. That's war. We need a lot of patience and judgment and equilibrium before the truth hits our ears. That's as it has to be. That's why there's such a thing as censorship. And such a thing as propaganda.

Kilgallen

Suppose Broadway, in a little world of its own, were undergoing the same crisis. Suppose truth were evasive and many times truant. Suppose Broadway columnists had their own special kind of censor's thumb clamped down on their Underwoods. What then?

Well, if Bright Light-coverers like me passed along the type of "items" that compares with the rumors evoked by a world at war, it would probably go something like this:

* * *

"From a high government spokesman we learn that Michigan's Ex-Governor Dickinson will be made Federal Coordinator of all amusement agencies: stage, screen and radio . . . Tin Pan Alley, it is said, has been ordered by Washington to clean its shelves of all songs which may be misconstrued as subversive. "Give It Back To The Indians" will undoubtedly be the first to go . . . Mayor La Guardia is pooh-poohing reports that he'll star in a Hollywood propaganda film called "Fire When Ready" . . . A usually authentic Washington source predicts that Mrs. Roosevelt will become a night club habituee as an example of how to seek "escape" in times of stress.

* * *

"Those in the know claim that Maurice Chevalier landed by parachute near Chattanooga (Choo-Choo) Tennessee . . . If Eddy Duchin heads a squadron of planes bound for Vladivostok, remember you read it here first! . . . The government's newest secret weapon is a product of the mind of William Saroyan. They say it will completely befuddle the enemy. In fact, it has already befuddled the best minds in Washington.

* * *

"The U. S. Cavalry will graciously decline Bing Crosby's donation of his race horses. Too slow . . . A survey will shortly reveal that the New York City subway riders are better fighters, barehanded, than the Japanese with guns . . . Greta Garbo will surrender all isolationist practises before the month is up . . . Lana Turner's studio reports her missing. When last heard from, she was visiting an army camp—and none of the soldiers there will talk!

* * *

An unconfirmed report hints that a battery of Red Cross nurses is being organized among Tommy Manville's former wives . . . They also say that Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi are organizing a "Fright Division" for overseas combat. Something about using movie horror technique instead of ordinary ammunition . . . The president is said to be considering sending Shirley Temple directly to Berlin by plane to persuade Hitler to surrender. On the theory that Shirley's been so disarming in her pictures that maybe she can expand her melting power to real life. (But we doubt if Hitler is as soft a touch as C. Aubrey Smith!) . . . Jack Benny lost Rochester in a blackout early last night.

"Radio circles predict that Prime Minister Winston Churchill will head a "crime-does-not-pay" series of programs after the war . . . Also after the war, Mussolini's ghost writers may toil for Bob Hope . . . I can't check this, but I understand the Shuberts will admit men in uniform free to their theaters if each is accompanied by nine civilians who will pay."

TWO FOUND DEAD AT CHAMPAGNE SUPPER PARTY

Coroner Investigates Murder, Suicide Angles In Chicago Deaths.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — Their deaths attributed to poisoned champagne, the bodies of C. S. McArdle, 45-year-old St. Louis industrialist, and Miss Nancy LaMotte Wassman, 35, of Chicago, were found early today in a private dining room at a fashionable Chicago cafe.

McArdle's body was on the floor in a sitting posture, with his back braced against a wall, while Miss Wassman, clad in a red evening gown, was stretched out on the floor when a waiter kicked the door open at 1 a. m., police were told.

A suitcase belonging to McArdle was found in the dining room. A letter found in Miss Wassman's purse indicated that he had told her he planned to take a train for St. Louis at midnight last night.

The couple had partaken of an expensive pheasant dinner, ordering champagne at $8.50 a bottle both before and after their meal, which began at 9:30 p. m. A half-emptied bottle of champagne stood on the table when the bodies were found.

The deaths came after an acquaintanceship of several years standing between McArdle and the pretty Chicago girl, a divorcee, according to friends of Miss Wassman.

Papers found on McArdle's body indicated that he was a vice president and sales manager for the Missouri-Portland Cement company at St. Louis. Among the papers was an uncashed check for $1,207.36, made out in McArdle's favor and dated Dec. 27.

Coroner A. L. Brodie announced that the possibilities of double suicide or of murder and suicide were being investigated in the deaths.

The papers in McArdle's pockets indicated that he was a member of the Missouri Chamber of Commerce, the Missouri Athletic club and other organizations. Friends of Miss Wassman, operator of a beauty parlor, said she had known McArdle for several years.

ILL 6 MONTHS

T. E. Merkel, 71, Ex-Mansfielder, Stricken at Ashland.

ASHLAND — Theodore Eddy Merkel, 71, former salesman for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, died this morning at his home, 316 East Main street, following an illness of six months.

Born in Wayne county, Jan. 18, 1870, he lived for three years in Mansfield, 10 years in Ashland and 25 years in Dayton before returning to Ashland seven years ago.

Retired at the time of his death, he was a member of the United Commercial Travelers, the Knights of Pythias and a former member of the Big Prairie Baptist church.

Surviving are his widow, Dora; one daughter, Mrs. Allen Martin of Ashland; one sister, Mary E. Merkel of Wooster; and one brother, E. D. Merkel of Wooster.

The body will be returned to the home this afternoon.

Rev. A. A. Hunter of the Methodist church will conduct services at the home Monday at 2 p. m.

Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

ADOPTS DEFENSE BOND SYSTEM

A payroll deduction system for the purchase of defense bonds will be instituted for employes of the Standard Oil company of Ohio, J. B Coleman, manager of the Mansfield division of the company, announced today.

"While the purchase of defense bonds by employes is of course entirely voluntary," Coleman said "we are frankly urging our employes to participate in this plan."

"Defense bonds offer a practical method of saving and at the same time help Uncle Sam to carry out the enormous financial burden of the war. The pay roll deduction method makes it simpler and easier to carry through a defense bond savings program."

FAMILY-SLAYER BACK IN CELL

Youth, Who Confessed Killing Four, Gives Up After Flight To Escape Cold.

LITTLE FALLS, Minn—Richard Dehler, 16-year-old slayer of four, returned to a warm cell today and blamed an accomplice for a jail break which gave him 24 hours of freedom before frigid temperatures drove him into the arms of police.

Police said the youth, who confessed murdering his father, mother, sister and brother and setting the family home afire Dec. 19, appeared confused and cold when he was recaptured last night.

He had escaped from the Morrison county jail the preceding night with his cellmate, Theodore Grest, 41. Police reported that a posse had surrounded Grest in a swamp.

"Dehler hasn't much to say for himself," Chief of Police H. C. Trebiatowski said.

The temperature had dipped below the zero mark when a police squad in a patrol car spotted Dehler. He was attempting to enter a farm house to escape from the cold, authorities said, and made no attempt to resist of flee.

The two escaped from jail when Grest allegedly slugged Sheriff William Butcher with a blackjack made of a stocking and a salt shaker. Butcher was returning Dehler to a cell after taking the youth to his home to replenish his supply of clothes.

ANTI-SALOON REPORTS HALF OF STATE DRY, TO FIGHT ON

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — The Ohio Anti-Saloon league, reviewing a successful year of campaigning that made half of the state "dry territory," today announced plans for furthering its fight against the sale of liquor and beer.

S. P. McNaught, league president, asserted that "dry" forces were victorious by a two-to-one majority in local option elections in Ohio during 1941, and said the league was preparing for more elections this year in townships, municipalities and residence districts of two or more contiguous precincts.

"Out of 46 communities voting on the sale of hard liquor last year, 31, or better than two-thirds, voted dry as against only 15 favoring the 'wet' cause," McNaught said.

"The vote against beer sales was even more favorable," he added. The league's figures show that 27 communities voted out the sale of 3.2 beer as against eight favoring it.

Local option elections since repeal of the state prohibition act in 1933 have placed half of Ohio, geographically speaking, in "dry" territory, McNaught said, adding: "We have every confidence of future gains in 1942."

While McNaught contended that results of the league's campaign showed sentiment for local prohibition increasing, state liquor department officials cited statistics to show that the wave of dry voting had passed its crest.

A department spokesman pointed out that the number of local option elections had diminished decidedly the past two years because the predominantly dry areas already had voted and the department's rigid enforcement program had reduced complaints.

BOARD TO MEET

County Fair Directors to Plan 1942 Activities.

The Richland county fair board was scheduled to meet at the courthouse this afternoon to elect officers and plan its 1942 activities.

County commissioners also were expected to give the board their answer to a request for an increased appropriation for the fair this year. Last year the county reduced the appropriation to $2,800, the minimum set up by the state, and the fair board had to reduce its operating costs to meet the cut.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the commissioners, said he planned to attend this afternoon's session and "give them my ideas about the fair."

H. H. Wolf of Franklin township has headed the fair board for the past year. R. D. Hale, Mansfield, was secretary.

Laff-a-Day

An article in the January Harper's magazine praised the metal stamping building of the Westinghouse Electrical and Manufacturing company in Mansfield as an example of the "best in modern functional architecture." The article said that modern American orchittecture was at its best in factory design and named the Mansfield building as one of the better examples of the type.

Mansfield motorists owing fines for overtime parking or other traffic violations may expect to receive some postcards in the near future but they won't be the "wish you were here" variety. Police have decided that because more than 5,000 notices must be mailed to erring motorists that the writing of 5,000 separate letters is too much of a task. Instead, they have had little postcard notices printed which will inform the drivers that they must pay or face prosecution.

STRICKEN WHILE CRANKING AUTO

Amos Darr, 56, Dies of Heart Attack Near Loudonville.

LOUDONVILLE — Amos Earl Darr, 56, fell dead of a heart attack this morning while helping his son crank the family car at their farm home, one and one-half miles north of Jelloway, near here. He had spent his entire life on the same farm.

ATTACK ON CONVOY LASTS FOR 4 DAYS

British Admit Losing Two Merchant Ships and Destroyer In Fight.

LONDON—The admiralty announced today that at least three German submarines and two German long-range bombers had been destroyed by the defenders of a convoy in the Atlantic.

A bulletin said that more than 90 per cent of the convoy, consisting of more than 30 freighters; had reached port after a four-day running battle. Only two merchantmen, totalling 6,193 tons, were lost, it said.

Loss of the British Destroyer Stanley, a former United States vessel, and the auxiliary warship Audacity also was acknowleged.

Both warships were torpedoed in the German attack which lasted from Dec. 17 to Dec. 21, the admiralty said.

This was cited as an instance of the defense of the Atlantic life line which continues "bringing vital supplies to our shores" week after week.

"It is known that at least three of the attacking U-boats were sunk, since prisoners of war from these three U-boats were taken," the admiralty said. "Two of the German long-range Focke-Wulf aircraft were shot down into the sea and a third was so severely damaged it may not have regained its base."

The convoy was reported to have consisted of more than 30 merchant ships led by Vice Admiral Raymond Fritzmaurice, a veteran as commodore of convoys.

"The attack on the convoy developed Dec. 17 and before noon that day the first U-boat was sunk," the admiralty said. "The U-boat was sighted on the surface and sunk by gunfire from ships of the escort.

"Prisoners taken from this U-boat stated it had been forced to the surface by damage inflicted in depth charge attacks earlier in the day."

Two German bombers attacked in the afternoon, but were driven off by the Audacity's gunners, and another U-boat was sent to the bottom the following day in an action in which the former American Destroyer Stanley participated, the admiralty said.

Some hours later the Stanley herself was torpedoed and sunk. Other escort vessels countered with enemy depth charges and another U-boat was forced to the surface.

"It was rammed and sunk by H. M. S. Stork, some prisoners being taken," the official account went on.

Two Focke-Wulf aircraft were shot down into the sea Dec. 19 and a third was badly damaged and driven off by the Audacity, the admiralty said, and the Germans carried on the attack with submarines.

Malaya, Far East Battleground, Rich In Minerals

Jungles, swamps and mountains make up the Malay peninsula, now a battleground as Japanese land, sea and air forces attempt to push southward from Thailand for large-scale assaults on Singapore, Britain's Gibraltar of the east, which lies off the Malay peninsula. But Malaya also is rich in minerals as shown on this map. Rubber also is a valuable product. Latest reports from Singapore indicate the British have stalled the Japanese advance near Kuanton on the east coast.

000 Nazi officers and men in the six-day period from Dec. 26 to 31—an average of 2500 daily—and a mid-day communique today reported 1,850 invaders annihilated in three local engagements.

In the Crimea, Soviet dispatches said Russian forces which drove the Germans from Kerch and Feodosiya had recaptured 19 more settlements in pursuit of the Germans, who now were apparently falling back toward their main siege armies around Sevastopol naval base.

On the North African front, both the German and Italian high commands acknowledged the British capture of Bardia, Axis stronghold near the Libyan-Egyptian frontier.

British dispatches said South African infantrymen, supported by British tanks, stormed the stubbornly-defended fortress in "a moonlight bayonet attack," capturing more than 5,000 Axis defenders and freeing 1,150 British soldiers imprisoned there. German Major Gen. Schmidt, chief staff officer of the Nazi "Panzer Gruppe Afrika," was among the Axis prisoners taken.

Premier Mussolini's high command said other Axis forces were still holding out at nearby Salum.

A British spokesman said there was no further change in the main battle sector in western Libya, where Gen. Erwin Rommel's battered armies have taken a new stand around Agedabia, 90 miles south of Bengasi.

While rejoicing in the final capture of Bardia and its Axis garrison in the Libyan campaign yesterday, Britain admitted the loss of the 7,175-ton cruiser Neptune and the destroyer Kandahar in Mediterranean operations.

A London communique said the Neptune, the 12th British cruiser officially acknowledged sunk during the war, had been sent to the bottom by a mine. The Kandahar, the 56th destroyer victim, was reported sunk by British forces after she was damaged by a mine.

The Italian high command had listed the Neptune as a torpedo plane victim, and said Christmas day that her sailors had been found near Italian shores, "brought in by the tide."

Sergeant and Dog Meet a Skunk-- With Sad Results

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(INS)—A skunk was caught red handed in the boiler room at the Third Repair Squadron barracks, Duncan Field, San Antonio, by Poochie, unofficial mascot at the barracks.

Poochie snapped the skunk—a mistake.

A sergeant, in charge of the boiler room, seeing Poochie back away, hit the skunk with a stick —also an error.

Now the sergeant and his pet dog are undergoing the slow, but necessary, process of deodorizing themselves—far, far away from the other fellows.

List Nazi Losses As Hitler Commands

NEW YORK—(INS)—A British radio broadcast heard by CBS said today that since Hitler took over command of the German army the Nazis have "lost two important ports in the Crimea, five key positions in the Leningrad area and 17 vital points on the Moscow front, including Volokolamsk, Staritza and Kaluga."

"Even more important are the German losses in men and material," the broadcast said. "On the Moscow front alone German deaths were at the rate of 3,000 per day in the last week of 1941."

Duce Calls For Closer Cooperation

ROME — (Official Italian Broadcast Recorded by U.P. at London)—Premier Benito Mussolini today demanded that Italians cooperate more closely with "our comrades of the Axis" because the future of Italy is at stake.

The premier spoke to the National committee of the Fascist party, according to the official news agency.

Closer cooperation, he said, will enable the Axis to achieve a final victory.

"This is a war in which two worlds are facing each other," Mussolini said. "The future life of the Italian people is at stake."

PRICE-CONTROL BILL SPEEDED

per cent of parity or the market price of last Oct. 1.

Sen. Russell (D) Ga., is expected to renew a fight on the floor for restoration of a rejected third alternative that farm price ceiling could not be set below the 1919-1924 average.

Sen. Bankhead (D) Ala., was beaten in two attempts during committee deliberations to give Secretary of Agriculture Wickard authority to administer price-control over farm commodities. Both Wickard and Leon Henderson, price administrator, made 11th hour appearances to demand control over farm prices.

Wickard told the committee that 'price inducement is absolutely indispensable" for all-out production of farm products in the nation's war effort. He urged that his department be permitted to fix farm-price ceilings.

The committee rejected Wickard's request, but agreed to an amendment by Sen. Taft. (R) O., permitting the president to transfer any price-fixing functions from the administrator to another agency if he deems it advisable.

The committee rejected a Taft amendment providing for a five-man board to administer the price-control bill.

Brown said the full committee was practically unanimous in rejecting wage ceilings as "impractical."

"As one witness testified, price control is in itself wage control," Brown said "You can't raise wages beyond limits fixed by prices."

The senate bill authorizes the administrator to grant licenses for sale of products covered by price orders as a method of enforcing regulations. It provides licenses for every outlet of goods except sales by farmers, Brown said.

WANTS HITLER, GETS A FINE

Alien Sentenced for Shouting 'To Hell with U. S.'

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—(INS)—Frank Bierder, 42, a German alien, started serving a 15-day sentence in the county penitentiary today for having shouted in a tavern, "To hell with the United States. I'd rather fight for Hitler." He also was fined $25. City Judge Basil Filardi in sentencing Biender on a disorderly conduct charge said:

"I wish I could arrange to return you to Hitler. In Germany you would be shot for behavior such as yours."

New Tool May End 'Achilles' Heel' of Tanks

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — A new defense tool capable of eliminating the "Achilles' heel" of combat tanks was demonstrated at the National Metal Congress and Exposition in Philadelphia recently.

The vital spot on a tank, experts explained, has always been the track pin, holding together the heavy treads of the endless track on which the tank rolls. The new tool was revealed as an electrical induction surface hardening unit capable of making trackpins tougher.

When a pin gives away, the experts added, the track breaks and stalls, usually putting the tank out of action. But hardening the surface of the pins by the new induction method has resulted in greater resistance to wear and to the normal shock of combat.

A development of the Ohio Crankshaft company, Cleveland, O., the process reportedly is revolutionizing the science of metallurgy. With speed of induction surface hardening vital to industry today, 11-inch pins now can be hardened in 15 seconds, it was said, as compared with the minimum of 36 hours required in the older pack methods.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 3, 1942.

The old idea that "no news is good news" does not apply to the people of Germany and Italy.

Americanism: Blaming the automobile dealer for not putting on more pressure when he tried to sell them a new car last week.

Japs Take Manila, Temporarily

ABANDONMENT of Manila, while it may temporarily appear as a Japanese triumph, gives the impression of being a bit of shrewd strategy designed to spare that historic old city's institutions and civilian population from further destructive bombing and to keep it as nearly intact as possible pending eventual victory of Allied forces in the Philippines and throughout the Far East.

Withdrawal of defenses and designation of Manila as an "open city," on December 26, left little doubt that unless reinforcements arrived for the outnumbered American and Filipino defenders the city would temporarily fall into Japanese hands.

That is what has now happened, at heavy cost to the invaders, but the battle of Luzon Island still goes on, while General MacArthur and his valiant men await the aid that has been promised them, and of which they are in dire need.

"One thing was certain," yesterday's report said, "General MacArthur will not abandon the fight for the Philippines." It may be necessary, as was intimated, that before adequate help can be given, defenders will be forced to withdraw to the strongly fortified island of Corregidor, which has thus far stayed in the background of Far East news but which may emerge at any moment as a key position.

Events in Hawaii and the Philippines, coupled with the fall of Guam and Wake islands, have served to disclose lack of readiness on the part of the United States to meet a situation for which Japan was well prepared—in military equipment, manpower and "fifth column" intrigue.

Within the past six months, according to the Manila Tribune, more than two thousand Japs left the Philippines, when normally there would have been continued immigration from Japan. This heavy outward movement is now interpreted as meaning that agents of the Japanese government had foreknowledge of what was to happen and were warned to get out before the blow struck.

As the Philippines later return to normal the only regret will be that more Japanese didn't go—that thousands of those who remained on the islands were in position to serve as spies and Quislings, making defense of the islands more difficult, as was the case at Pearl Harbor, where the work of unsuspected spies greatly simplified the task of Japanese bombers four weeks ago tomorrow.

Learning slowly, from bitter experience, revelation of the extent to which alien treachery has been carried on in the United States and its possessions or dependencies, may result in closer scrutiny of future immigrants before they are accorded the privilege of entry.

Filth Spreads Deadly Typhus

FROM time to time rumors are heard of a spread of typhus among the soldiers of the German armies in Russia. There is typhus in Poland, adding plague to starvation. There is no doubt that such an epidemic, once started, would spread with dire effects all over Europe.

Typhus is a filth disease. But it can attack any normally clean people who have been cut down in their use of water and soap. There is a definite and apparently inescapable chain. Shortage of fats means shortage of soap. Shortage of soap means typhus.

A tiny louse carries the germs. Where bodies are washed daily—or even weekly—with soap, and the bath is followed by change into clean clothing, there is no typhus spread. But where bodies and clothing alike become soiled and cannot be washed frequently, the danger soon becomes grave.

Americans in general know little about these filth diseases. But they must learn about them, because to be forewarned is to be forearmed. Ignorant people living under slum conditions can imperil a nation. Informed people keeping clean need have no fear.

Less Riding Alone Hereafter

EFFORTS to conserve automobiles and tires may result in better acquaintanceship among neighbors and less of the "individual transportation" that means one person riding to and from work alone in a five-passenger car.

The habit of alternating use of cars in driving to and from shop or office has already been developed in some larger cities and is now a subject of lively discussion in Mansfield and vicinity.

The idea is that instead of each person driving his own car back and forth every day, and riding alone, a neighborhood foursome or "fivesome" be organized, with each member providing transportation for a week and rotating so that one car does the work of four or five, thus conserving mechanism and tires.

This plan is likely to be more generally adopted when the need for economizing on cars and tires becomes better understood.

Water-Grown Food Supply

WITHOUT giving any explanation for the fact, a federal government report recently told of the biggest day in 25 years for the Fulton Fish Market in New York. Two million pounds of fresh and salt water fish, clams, lobsters, eels and other forms of sea foods were received. Some old hands at the market declared the total was bigger than the government figure.

Shipments came from many different places. Eighteen trawlers arrived from the Georges Banks. Trucks and trains brought sea food from Florida, shrimp from Louisiana, salmon and halibut from the Pacific Coast, a variety of fresh water fish from the Great Lakes, frozen lobster tails from South Africa, spiny lobster from Cuba and—from cold storage—polpi or squid from Portugal.

It may be that all these fish converged on New York because some other markets are now closed to such imports. Or it may be that fishing was particularly good in various places at exactly the right times to produce this record at the Fulton Market.

There is probably no cosmic significance in the event, but it might be taken as a good omen of the abundance of the nation's food supply.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—An aside to Whitney Bolton, that old Hollywood sage, who says that plays haven't got much chance of running through the summer if they open after March:

Podnah, you're wrong. . . . Why, I'm going to show you just how wrong you are. What you want to do is stroll out on 45th street and take a good sniff of that 45th street air. Then head west till you come to the Martin Beck, and take a look at what the sign says. . . . What does that sign say? Why, it says "Lillian Hellman's new play, Watch on the Rhine, with Paul Lukas, Lucile Watson, Mady Christians."

That's the Drama Critics' Prize play of the year, son. And it opened after March. It opened in April. It ran away with the summer and with most of Broadway, too, right through the hot days and into the fall, and it's still running. I just thought you'd want to know.

THE last cello made by Antonio Stradivari is owned by a 39-year-old ex-Austrian by the name of Emanuel Feuermann who is also the leading cellist in the world. It is one of 16 Strad cellos in the United States and is valued at $35,000. Whenever Feuermann travels, he always buys an extra Pullman berth for his cello. . . . Not for him the cold gray gloom of the baggage car. . . . He says, "If that Strad was in the baggage car I couldn't sleep." Feuermann isn't kidding. That's his business and his life.

YOU like half-wit stories? Dick Todd has a hat full, and the one he likes best is about the unbright lad who was finally taken to a psychiatrist.

The medico gathered the lad to him in a kindly glance and said, "Son, what would happen if I were to cut off one of your ears?"

"I couldn't hear."

"What would happen if I were to cut off both your ears?"

"I couldn't see," replied the lad.

"How do you figure that?" the psychiatrist wanted to know, a little taken aback at this answer.

"If you cut off both my ears," the boy said, "my hat would fall over my eyes."

THE Japs have changed a few of our Broadway and Hollywood plans for us. There was a new play due the other week, but day after the Pearl Harbor attack it was called off. The play had a naval significance and its locale was Pearl Harbor. . . . At the same time, Tommy Dorsey was on the coast to appear in a picture called "I'll Take Manila." This film has now been given a new title.

Another new magazine, Stag, has a piece of Hollywood Ham in its first issue by John Barrymore. John signs the article "By a Prime Cut."

Auto Curtailment Hits Revenues

—By JACK STINNETT

(Second of a Series)

WASHINGTON—The rationing of tires and tubes and the drastic reduction in new car production may eventually give the public fallen arches but it already is giving the tax experts on Capitol Hill one of their worst headaches.

A quick glance at the revenues anticipated from motor transportation in this country will make this clear.

* * *

IN 1941, the 1½ per cent federal tax on gasoline and lubricating oils was made permanent to give the treasury an estimated revenue of $436,000,000.

Tire, tube and other federal vehicle taxes are supposed to yield approximately $116,000,000. The new $5-a-year automobile use tax, slated to become effective February 1, is supposed to bring in around $160,000,000.

In other words around three-quarters of a billion dollars was to roll into the treasury coffers in 1942 as result of taxes on new cars, tires and fuel.

* * *

JUST how much that is going to be cut is anybody's guess. The revenue won't disappear entirely any more than cars will disappear from the streets and highways, but with the rationing of tires and tubes; the slash in new car production; and the proposed repeal of the use tax, because of the expense and difficulty of collection, the revenue getters in congress are worried a-plenty.

In their frantic search for new sources of revenue for the next fiscal year, the automobile was to play an important role. It is an open secret that they were eyeing the gasoline and lubricating oil tax for a substantial boost and already were ready to point out to any objectors that England imposes a gasoline tax of around 15 cents a gallon. There also was a plan to slap a tax on the sales of used cars.

Now, with no tires available except on new cars and with new car production cut to one-fourth normal and probably slated for complete stoppage, congress is faced with two problems. First, an increase in these taxes would fall primarily on those whose cars and trucks are considered vital to public health and safety. Second, any great increase in tax might cause such a shortage of transportation facilities, in sections where buses and trolleys are not available as to disrupt completely the American way of life.

* * *

THE first possibility would be bad enough, congressmen say, but the second might be tragic in its results. Consequently, congress observers are predicting now that the lawmakers will swallow the bitter pill and point to it as one of the major reasons why the country will have to turn to a federal sales tax on practically all commodities to raise funds for even a portion of our war effort.

This loss of millions in revenue is only one of the many critical results of the new priorities restricting the use of motor transportation. It isn't the only thing, however, that is worrying congressmen, government officials and the heads of automobile associations.

Another is the lack of concern with which the public has taken announcement of the new priorities. One government official said:: "They (the driving public) seem to think we are trying to put over another gasoline shortage scare."

Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile association, says: "Motorists are faced with the stark reality that unless they prolong the life of present cars and tires through careful driving and lower speeds, they will eventually be without individual transportation."

The war is hitting home, and aside from those in the armed forces in the battle lines or now being moved into them, the motorists of the United States may be the first to realize it.

Radios In Prison

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THEY have radios in San Quentin today. Seven short words, but if you think they don't make penal history, you're way back in your home work.

Radios for cons in California's "Big House" . . . as tough a tuck-away as ever sheltered battling bruisers? Yet there they are, with plenty more as startling innovations. Clinton T. Duffy, progressive penologist and America's youngest warden, started it. And the movement's spreading, but with an anvil chorus that's a honey.

Cons keeping current with today's news? Thieves . . . forgers . . . sluggers . . . holdup artists . . . all listening in on a world of life they've forfeited . . . listening in with earphones until nine o'clock! Talking it over afterwards, voting why America's tops. The idea is screwy! Numbered, embittered men, desperately lonely for wives, mothers, children and sweethearts, able to feel like regular guys again, able to talk about their country and its struggles? Somehow it doesn't seem right. The veterans can't take it.

And radios aren't all. There are pictures on the wall. Murals, gorgeous flares of color painted by the prisoners themselves. And flower gardens such as never were. Murderers planting roses, violets and petunias. Athletic teams too; tumblers, wrestlers, lightweights and heavyweights. Regular plug-glies mauling each other around, same as in Madison Square.

But I repeat, the veterans can't take it even though they know that the first man who takes advantage of this new deal will get the works, and then some. Even though the warden's as grim a disciplinarian when need be as ever put the fear of God in some fresh young smarty. Yes, the evidence is all there.

But the Sourpusses are still prophesying. Moaning, as maybe you are moaning, that it won't work. Doesn't pay to coddle criminals. Sure as shootin' there'll be hell poppin' if you do. All these dumb young coots—just wait 'n' see what happens. Treating them like real folks.

Well, I wonder. Is it so dangerous to treat a fresh brat like a regular guy? Remember back to your second year in Hi, when you sort of ran amuck? And how the town folk and everybody but the homicide squad was riding herd on you? That was the year your dad died and Mom was so sick all those months that she didn't know what was cookin', and you, in your young despair, didn't give a hoot.

A bad winter, wasn't it, brother? No telling how it might have ended if old Father Malone hadn't come along . . . taken an interest in you . . . made you take an interest in yourself. But he did. God rest his soul! So today you're free—and respectable.

But now there's another kid in the cell you came so close to making yours. A tough kid with a record as long as your arm. But no old Father Malone . . . no human young Warden Duffy . . . willing to give him a hand. So what?

DO YOU THINK IT'S A BETTER BET TO TREAT HIM LIKE A GORILLA — OR GIVE HIM HUMAN BREAKS?

ISN'T IT MORE INTELLIGENT TO STRAP THE EARPHONES ON HIM AND LET HIM DIAL IN ON HIS NATION'S LIFE. LET HIM FEEL HE IS STILL ONE OF UNCLE SAM'S SONS, THAN TO DAMN HIM TO A SILENCE THAT'S MORE CRUEL AND CORRODING THAN DEATH?

I've seen people who lived like that. Decent people with no police record. Sheep herders . . . lonely farm wives . . . Woodcutters . . . settlers. I've seen them when they came out again, four or five years after, dull-eyed, jittery, just two jumps from the mad house.

Silence does that to people. Brooding isolaton does that. Eats into your mind like some corroding poison. Leaves you stammering . . . fumbling . . . shuddering at shadows. Suppose you'd made a mistake as a kid? And they'd hung a rap like that on you? Given you over to the shadows? Would YOU think it intelligent? Yes, I'd like to know.

Drivers' Duty.

Even in America, where liberty is a boast and a pride, individual rights are restricted by duty to society.

This lesson was brought home to 21 young men and women, traffic law violators, recently by a conducted tour through the city hospital of Indianapolis where they were shown victims of traffic accidents.

After being duly impressed by the sight of children who may never be able to walk and aged people who have suffered for months and may never leave hospital beds alive, the judge of the local court who accompanied the careless youngsters said: "No motorist necessarily has a right to drive a car. It is a privilege given by a community and when drivers refuse to obey regulations made for his protection and for protection of others, that privilege should be taken away." Accordingly, he revoked the licenses of the worst offenders.—Detroit News.

TODAY IN HISTORY

After the defeat of the British at Trenton, N. J., on the previous Dec. 26, Washington learned that Cornwallis with an army of 8,000 had arrived near the city of Princeton. By a series of strategic manœuvers, Washington succeeded in capturing the enemy's military stores on Jan. 3, 1777.

Anti-Axis Nations Plan Strategy For Combined Action Over World

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A DISTINGUISHED visitor in London would have had to leave an extraordinary number of calling cards. England's ablest militarists and statesmen were all on important missions far from the Thames.

Away in Washington were Prime Minister Churchill; Lord Beaverbrook, the minister of supply; Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, commander of the British fleet; Gen. Sir John Dill, former chief of the Imperial general staff; Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal.

Away in Moscow was Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, along with the influential Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent undersecretary of foreign affairs, and Lieut. Gen. Archibald Edward Nye, vice-chief of the general staff.

And in Chungking was Britain's famed Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell.

In these far-flung cities, profoundly significant conferences were being held by spokesmen of nations fighting the Axis. One topic topped the agenda of all three conferences: How best to beat the Axis.

The Washington Conference.

Though all nations opposing the Axis joined in the long series of conferences at the U. S. capital, they were mainly between Britain and the U. S. These two apparently reached a preliminary agreement on the broad global strategy for campaigns calculated to put the Allies on the high road to victory in 1943. Other nations were called in for their reactions; and then details and responsibility for executing the strategy were considered.

Churchill won bravos from U. S. lawmakers when he appeared before them. The concluding thought in his speech was that after the war "an adequate organization should be set up to make sure that the pestilence (causing war) can be controlled at its earliest beginning before it spreads and rages throughout the entire earth."

Last Sunday he slipped out of Washington in FDR's special pullman car for a brief trip to Ottawa.

The Moscow Conference.

Anthony Eden, it was disclosed, was in conferences "of the frankest possible nature" with Joseph Stalin at the Kremlin for two weeks. A representative of China sat in on the meetings.

London heard that both Eden and Stalin showed "an identity of views on all questions relating to the conduct of the war" and that they exchanged views on delicate questions relating to the "post-war organization of peace and security."

Pledge United Action.

Yesterday's announcement that Manila had fallen but that defense of the Philippines would continue was followed quickly by news that the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China had been joined by 22 other nations in signing a pact pledging unified military and economic action against the Axis powers, with each agreeing not to make separate peace with the enemy.

At Home

Tire Rationing.

War will reach out and grab America's 32,000,000 motor car owners by the scuff of the neck this coming week. From now on most of them will be unable to buy tires because of rationing forced by the cut-off of crude rubber from the Far East.

Not only pleasure drivers but taxicabmen, travelling salesmen, and home delivermen will be unable to buy new tires.

* * *

Heavier Demands.

That military requirements would demand half of all America's production in 1942, at the annual convention of the Allied Social Science associations in New York, President Roosevelt, meanwhile, said he was aiming to devote 50 per cent of the national income to the war program. In November the rate was 17 per cent.

Called Off.

Indianapolis' 500-mile, $100,000 auto speed classic was cancelled for the duration of the war to conserve rubber, fuel, oil, intricate motor parts and mechanical brains normally expended on the event.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Enhancing a Letter's Joy.

I hold your letter in my hand
Regarding it awhile
Unopened, let its coming thrill,
Me through and through, this guile

A trick enhancing it the more
With every moment This
Delay augmenting my delight,
I would not care to miss.

I turn your letter side to side
So lovingly, I press
It to my cheek, hold it aloft
As I its contents guess.

This short delay, this dear suspense
Add momentarily
To deep delight I feel when you
Have thought to write to me.

Abroad

Russia Moves On.

It was another dismal week for the Germans retreating in the Soviet blizzardland. Russians claimed recapture of hundreds of villages. Germans said Russians were attacking in horse-drawn sleds during blinding snowstorms. Moscow radio stated: "Estimates of the booty and the number of casualties are far from complete, since many of the dead and much equipment is buried under the snow." Russians announced the recapture of the key city of Kerch in the Crimea. In Switzerland, newspapers concluded that the Germans would not be allowed to dig in for the winter.

* * *

Faster. This Time.

The last time, it took the British nine weeks to drive Axis forces out of Cirenaica, the eastern half of Italian Libya.

This time, the British have taken only six weeks to push Axismen back near the Cirenaica-Tripolitania dividing line. The drive began Nov. 20 at the Egyptian border with British forces trying to spring a huge trap. Many Axis troops wiggled loose, bee-lined for Tripolitania. They tried to make a stand during the past week at Agedabia 90 miles south of British-captured Bengasi and still inside Cirenaica.

* * *

Why Turkey Worried.

Great Britain was put to great inconvenience last summer when Rashid Ali El Gailani engineered an Axis coup in Iraq. British troops finally put it down; and Rashid skipped to neutral Turkey. The Turks allowed him to enter "on condition that he would not leave the country." Last week Rashid was reported conferring with Nazis in Berlin. Turkey charged he had broken "his written word."

* * *

Gandhi Out.

Freedom-yearning Indians have been in a quandary for months.

Most of them are rooting for Britain and they are alarmed as Japanese thrusts into Burma bring the war closer to them. But Britain refused to give them specific assurances of the freedom they want.

As a result of the confusion, the country has been in a political stalemate, with splits in both her two most powerful political groups, Mohandas K. Gandhi's Congress Party (predominantly Hindu), and the Muslim League, (predominantly Moslem). Gandhi, famed exponent of non-violence, has opposed collaboration with Britain in making war.

Both the Congress and the Muslim league have recently been in heated sessions. On Tuesday it was disclosed that the congress had side-tracked Gandhi to make it possible for the congress to cooperate with Britain's war effort if it can obtain more specific assurances from Britain on independence.

Russia's Religion.

Organized religion has taken as bad a kicking around in Soviet Russia as in any modern state. In a dramatic, cautiously-worded interview with AP writer Eddie Gilmore, the Archbishop of the Russian Orthodox Church discussed the status of the church in Russia today.

The church, he said, "always has been with the state or rather the people in crucial hours.

Asked if there was a difference between the Nazi and Soviet attitude toward the church he said: "There is a tremendous difference . . . Hitler has invented a god of his own."

"What percentage of the youth are church-goers?" Gilmore asked. "About 5 per cent," the archbishop replied.

Brooke-Popham Out.

In Malaya the Japanese pushed past Ipoh, important tin mining center 290 miles north of Singapore. British criticism of developments in Malaya became more bitter. A legislator in Australia wisecracked:

"We ought to get the Russians to lend us Gen. Timoshenko to teach our generals how to advance instead of retreat."

Gen. Timoshenko was not forthcoming, but the British did replace Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, Far Eastern commander in chief, with up-and-coming Lieut. Gen. Sir Henry Pownall, energetic artillery specialist.

The small N.E.I. ("You Can't Beat the Dutch") forces continued to furnish the Japanese with nasty surprises by keeping up their "one-a-day" average in knocking out Nipponese ships, and by bringing down Japanese planes in wholesale lots.

Quotes

A U. S. Cavalry Colonel, after fighting in northern Luzon: "Those Japanese—we call them Charlies—are no damned good on the ground. They can't shoot. Somebody gets hit about every 5,000 shots."

George H. Earle III, recently U. S. minister to Bulgaria, in reporting that Rumanian and Hungarian hospitals are choked with German wounded: "German fortunes definitely are declining, but the death throes may be unprecedentedly violent."

In Short

Imposed: A price ceiling on cigarettes at existing levels by Price Administrator Leon Henderson, after makers of "Lucky Strikes" refused to rescind a price increase.

Dislodged: German occupying forces, from positions held for the last six months in West and Central Serbia, by Yugoslav patriot forces, according to British radio.

Shot Down: A German Heinkel bomber over Britain that was equipped with a sharp "bumper" designed to cut through barrage balloon cables.

LAUNCH RED CROSS DRIVE AT ASHLAND

Seek to Raise $13,000 In Campaign Which Gets Under Way Today.

ASHLAND — As Ashland citizens register for Civilian Defense today, Ashland county's Red Cross drive to raise a $13,000 emergency fund also gets under way.

Volunteer workers for the city defense program are registering at the fire station, the public library and the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Over 200 Ashlanders have volunteered their services for the Red Cross campaign and at a meeting of the campaign workers last night they received assignments and instructions from H. Marshall Clark, county Red Cross chairman, and Dr. A. A. Hunter, city chairman.

Captains for the campaign in Ashland are: Stuart A. Fluke, First Ward; A. F. Korsmeyer, Second Ward; E. H. Taylor, Third Ward; Paul Fike, Fourth Ward; Harry Shenberger, business district; William B. Kellogg, factories, and J. E. Bohn, schools and college.

patrol could be started immediately.

Harrington said members of the patrol, which will include licensed pilots from Mansfield, Marion, Ashland, Galion, Wooster, Bucyrus, Sandusky, Lorain and Medina, would be trained for courier service, patrol of the north central Ohio area, towing aerial gunnery targets, aircraft ferrying, flying ambulance planes, highway patrol duties and any other functions related to defense.

The non-flying personnel, he said, will be instructed in airplane mechanics, clerical work, science of observation, air navigation, the identification of U. S. and enemy aircraft and warships and aerial photography.

It is expected that approximately 200 persons from the nine cities included in the group will fly here for the session, the time and place of which will be announced later, Harrington said.

GOODYEAR SIGNS FIRST CONTRACT

Aircraft Subsidiary Reaches Accord With Employes.

AKRON—(INS)—A contract covering employer-employe relations between the Goodyear Aircraft Corp., subsidiary of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, and Local 856 of the CIO-United Automobile Workers, was signed today, a joint statement announced following a meeting of more than 1,000 employes.

The contract, first signed with the company by the union since employe bargaining rights were won in October, included the union shop, a five-cent hourly bonus for second shift workers, time and a half on Saturdays and double time on Sundays, a union representative said.

their immediate strategy in this area.

Significantly, President Roosevelt held a lengthy conference yesterday evening with Dutch Minister A. Loudon, Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Knox, Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. battle fleet.

This meeting followed a full session of the cabinet and came only a few hours after an official communique from Batavia and Washington disclosed that units of the U. S. Pacific fleet are operating in conjunction with the Dutch battle craft.

In broader view, however, the Washington conferees were agreed that absolute defeat of Hitler's Nazis hordes presents the main objective of the "united nations."

It was noteworthy that the no-separate-peace, complete victory agreement achieved by the White House conferees was called a "declaration by united nations."

President Roosevelt personally is said to have written in the word "united." In the first World war the powers aligned against Germany were known as the "allies," even though the United States came into that conflict as an associated power.

The "united declaration" is not a treaty and therefore does not have to be submitted to the senate for ratification.

Pact Hailed As Axis Death Knell

LONDON—(AP)—The 26-nation solidarity pact announced yesterday in Washington was hailed in British quarters today as the death knell of the Axis and the beginning of a new League of Nations fashioned "under better auspices."

"This declaration," the London News Chronicle said, "holds out hope of more than victory. All nations concerned have voluntarily subscribed to the principles of the Atlantic charter.

"They plan to work together in peace as well as in war for common ends. A new League of Nations is arising under better auspices."

The London Daily Telegraph declared the "Tripartite felons can never hope to prevail" against the might and resolution behind the pact.

"For Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo the Washington treaty is the writing on the wall," the Telegraph said.

The Daily Sketch declared the Washington agreement to crush the Axis was the "greatest news of the war. The bond will link the Allies firmly together and fortify their hearts for victory."

Heroic Adventure.

Declared to be the most colorful character Director Raoul Walsh has ever put on the screen the unpredictable and warmly-human Gen. George A. Custer lives again in the dramatic epic, "They Died With Their Boots On," showing at the Ohio. Based on the life of Custer from the time he entered West Point in 1857 until he was massacred with his men at the battle of Little Big Horn the picture gives Errol Flynn the role of Custer, gallant and adventurous, while Olivia de Havilland plays the part of his wife. Many famous characters in history are portrayed in the picture including Winfield Scott and Phil Sheridan. Sydney Greenstreet plays Scott and John Litel the part of Sheridan.

* * *

Tuneful Comedy.

"Cadet Girl," the comedy with music showing at the Madison, presents Carole Landis as a pretty vocalist who can't decide whether to bestow her affections on a West Point cadet or his tune baron Brother. George Montgomery plays the cadet and John Shepperd the tunesmith. Robin and Rainger wrote the songs for the shows and most of them are sung by Miss Landis in the role of an entertainer who leaves her work to appear in U.S.O. camps. Walter Brennan has the leading role in "Swamp Water," the second picture, dealing with the people living near a mysterous Georgia swamp.

Dual Role.

British Planes Blast Nazi Warships In Brest

In a daring raid aimed at crippling the Nazi warships before they could put to sea to take part in the battle of the Atlantic, R. A. F. planes bombed the German-occupied French port of Brest. The picture above was taken as two Halifax bombers released their bomb loads on the battleships Scharnhorst, left, and Gneisenau, both indicated by arrow at left, and on the cruiser Prinz Eugen, indicated by arrow at right.

MRS. W. T. HOUSTON PRESENTS PROGRAM

Gives Talk on "Impressions of Alaska" at Meeting of The Art Study Club Friday at the Susie Janis Home; Colored Movies Shown.

"IMPRESSIONS OF ALASKA" was the subject of a very interesting talk given by Mrs. W. T. Houston at the meeting of the Art Study club Friday at the Susie Janis home. Hostesses were Mrs. William Keefe, Mrs. Arthur Kell and Mrs. Joseph Tomlin. Thirty members and five guests were in attendance. The latter group was comprised of the Misses Helen Mae Tomlin, Carol Keefe, Miss Klutz, of Ironton, Marlene Wierman, all college students, and Mrs. Brown, of Crestline.

Mrs. Houston described her family's recent trip to Alaska which covered 3,000 miles of the interior of that country. In addition to her interesting comments, Mrs. Houston presented three reels of colored movies, shown by her son, William Houston, jr., assisted by David Talbot, jr.

Announcement was made that the next meeting will be held in the Congregational church with Mrs. Carl Damron, Miss Cora Walsh and Mrs. Frank Levitt as hostesses. Paper will be "Royalty in Art," to be given by Mrs. Robert Morris, of Wellington avenue. Date of the meeting is Jan. 16. Mrs. Frank Leavitt, who originally was scheduled to present the program Friday, will offer a paper on "Mayan Art" at the Feb. 6 meeting.

Jared Chapter, D. A. R., Hears Marion Principal

W. E. Orcutt, principal of Central Junior high school, Marion, was the guest speaker at the dessert lunch of the Jared Mansfield chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, which was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Hughes, 42 Sherman avenue. Mr. Orcutt spoke on "National Defense Through Patriotic Education" and particularly about the Rugg text book. His talk was followed by an open discussion.

Miss Henrietta Frank read a paper on American music prepared by Mrs. J. H. Bristor. The paper emphasized the contribution that negro writers have made to our American music. A quartet composed of Mrs. Gladys Bradford, Mrs. Lillian Clemons, Mrs. Sylvia Jordan and Mrs. Cleatrice Woodson sang six spirituals beloved by their race.

Mrs. John Shook, chaplain, led the devotions and Mrs. Arthur Courtney led the pledge of allegiance to the flag after giving a short flag lesson.

During the business session conducted by Mrs. Stanley Richardson, regent, the chapter voted $10 to the Red Cross Emergency Fund and approved the purchase of an American flag for a newly-organized local Boy Scout troop.

Delegates and alternates to the state convention of the D. A. R. which will be held March 10, 11 and 12, in Akron, were named. The delegates are Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. H. L. Creveling, Mrs. B. F. Spear, vice regent, and Mrs. R. W. Jones, secretary. Alternates are Mrs. H. L. Ackerman, Mrs. Shook, Mrs. Bristor and Mrs. W. H. Gifford.

A report was read from the national society stating that Mrs. Grover E. Swoyer's papers were accepted and she was welcomed as a chapter member. Thirty members and two guests, Mrs. O K Rogers and Mrs. A. M. Kirkpatrick, both of Shelby, were present.

The program was concluded with the reading of a poem, "And So Another War Has Come," given by the regent. Associate hostesses yesterday were Mrs. R. F. Miller, Mrs. W. P. Close, Mrs. Sidney Palmer and Mrs. Courtney.

The next meeting will be a buffet supper, Feb. 6, at 6 p. m at the home of Mrs. B. H. Spear, 544 Arlington avenue.

The Jamesons Give Party for House Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Jameson entertained at their beautifully decorated home, 71 Blymyer avenue, last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Herrold and Mrs. Jameson's son, Robert Fletcher, of Canton. The hostess told an original romantic story that included each of the 20 guests. Adjectives that had been listed by those present were inserted, with amusing results, by Mrs. Jameson as her story progressed.

The men at the party were winners in a "True or False" contest. Recipients of prizes in bingo were Rev. David N. Roller, Mr. Herrold and Miss Thelma Reed. Other games also were enjoyed.

Refreshments were served buffet style at a late hour. Mrs. Jameson used a lace banquet cloth on her table. In the center was an attractive epergne of white flowers with trailing greenery. Red candles completed the decorations.

Bible Club Has Meeting Friday

Mrs. E. Ray Jenkins, 618 Arlington avenue, was hostess to members of the Neighborhood Bible club at her home Friday afternoon. Fourteen members were in attendance. The business session was conducted by Mrs. Jenkins, president of the group.

Devotional service was in charge of Mrs. C. E. Frankeberger and Mrs. D. W. Cummins. Mrs. William Nussbaum presented the lesson topic, Hebrews, seventh-chapter. On Jan. 16, Mrs. Arthur Grau will entertain the club at her home, 624 Arlington avenue.

NURSERY MOTIFS PATTERN 2998

Cute, aren't they? You'll love embroidering them and baby will soon have his favorites among them. Use them on nursery linens or on tots' clothes—they're in easiest stitchery. Pattern 2998 contains a transfer pattern of 17 motifs ranging from 1⅝ x 2½ inches to 5¾ x 5¾ inches; materials required illustrations of stitches.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal Needlecraft Dept. 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number, your name and address.

For little "mothers," the lifelike Baby Doll holds endless fascination! Pattern 9825 is a complete layette designed by Marian Martin as an exciting holiday gift. There's a long-sleeved coat with a matching bonnet; a daintily scalloped dress with short sleeves, and a bonnet that's scalloped too. Both bonnet and dress look sweet when edged with narrow lace. There's also a bonnet to match the cunning rompers—make both of gala cotton, trim both with ric-rac. To keep dollie snug there's a baby-bunting with a hood attached. The little slip, like the other pieces, is easy to make with the Sew Chart. This is a perfect gift to accompany the popular "Dy-Dee Doll!"

Pattern 9825 may be ordered only for dolls measuring 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 inches, head to foot. For individual yardages, see pattern.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOUR TURN TO GET MAD

DID YOU ever see a player get so furious at his partner that, in his temper, he would purposely make some terrible bid or play, just to express his displeasure? Of course you have, though we hope you never have done it yourself. But did you ever see such a crazy bid or play turn out to the advantage of the miscreant? And thereby make you, the innocent bystander, be the victim? Don't say how you felt if that occurred. It is not necessary.

South was so incensed when his partner took out the business double of 4-Spades that he bid the 6-No Trumps only as a nasty exhibition of how he felt toward his partner. West doubled mainly on the psychology of the situation, just because South advertised that he was throwing his partner for punishment. All of the time, poor East, who had stuck in the sacrifice bid at 4-Spades, could only look on and hope for the best.

It turned out that the 6-No Trumps could not possibly be set. And, after West led his club K, South ran 13 consecutive tricks—seven in hearts, five in diamonds and one in clubs.

The pain of this debacle would have been less to East if South had claimed some kind of brilliancy for figuring out that he could make such a contract, no matter how far-fetched his logic might have been. But he made no such claim.

This much can be said for South, however. After he cleaned up so on the deal, he apologized in the humblest way he could to everybody concerned and promised he would never do such a thing again, even though it turned out profitably this one time.

Your Week-End Lesson

There are still players who refuse ever to bid a grand slam in tournament play, regardless of what bids their partners may make, unless they can see 13 consecutive tricks in their own hands. What set of facts should cause even these ultra-conservative players to bid a grand slam, in spite of their usual policy?

OFFICERS INSTALLED AT COUNCIL MEETING

Mrs. Mary Smith Takes Office of Councilor of Lady Garfield Council, No. 24, Daughters of America, at Meeting Friday.

MRS. MARY SMITH was installed as councilor of the Lady Garfield council, No. 24, Daughters of America, at a meeting held Friday evening at the Eagles hall. Mrs. Essie Miller, retiring councilor, conducted the business session. Mrs. Della Cochran was installed as associate councilor and Mrs. Essie Miller will serve as junior past councilor.

Other officers who took office last evening were: Mrs. Lucy DeWitt, associate junior past councilor; Mrs. Julia Grandstaff, vice councilor; Mrs. Frances Wolf, associate vice councilor: Mrs. Clara Creamer, conductor; Mrs. Jame M. Taylor, warden; Miss Mary Beilstein, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Sara Case, trustee, and Mrs. Martha Reichert, outside sentinel.

During the business session plans were made to purchase a $200 defense bond. The organization will also contribute to the Red Cross fund of the Ohio state council of the Daughters of America and the local Red Cross chapter. New officers are preparing for the inspection to be held Jan. 30. The next regular business meeting will be held Jan. 16, at the Eagles hall.

Holiday Dance Plans Complete

Final preparations were being completed today for the annual holiday dance of the local chapters of the Order of Rainbow for Girls and the Demolay for Boys which will be held this evening at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Bill Grassick and his orchestra will furnish music for dancing from 9 to 12 o'clock.

The dance will be semi-formal. Mary Rhoads is chairman of the affair and will be assisted by Eleanor Doolittle, ticket chairman.; Corrine Abrams, Charlotte Collins and Jackie Daley.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, January 4.

Sunday's horoscope holds auguries of great activity, with many enterprises and ambitious projects under exceedingly high stimulus for success and high culminations. It is a time to work with might and main, also with swiftness, to grasp the alluring situation, with nothing to swerve from the paramount purpose or ambition. Plans must be well-detailed and strategies soundly organized to attain the desired end.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of definite opportunity for reaching high goals of achievement and constructive ambitions. This is to be grasped, and should probably bring some sort of public cooperation or appreciation, if aggressive attacks on sound and practical prospects is sustained by keen, swift and determined action. Be firm, steadfast and practical.

A child born on this day will have great versatility, energy, adaptability and resourcefulness, which may be climaxed in public service.

* * *

For Monday, January 5.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a continuation of high tempo activities but with a definite menace of hazard and critical situations, which only initiative and enterprise, with shrewd and sound abilities, can sidestep. Change of plans, aims and contacts may be needful, but the program must be consistent as well as flexible. To gain ground depends upon staunch effort, not emotionalism or irregularities. Be determined but not impulsive.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which increasing opportunity depends upon sagacity, determination and resourcefulness, with well-directed practical effort, not emotionalism or impetuosity, when change of plans aims or personal contacts seems advisable. With care, firmness and logic at the helm, all should thrive and attain public or community support.

CHAPTER XXXIII

"Excuse me, Mr. Dennison," Wige was on his feet, speaking deliberately. "I'm starting to the Springs just as soon as I can get in touch with my mother. My brother wants me."

"But you said he wasn't hurt!"

"That's what they told me. Charlie wants me and I'm going to him."

"How?"

"In my car. I'll be there before morning."

"See here, Lennon. I can't spare you. I'm not going to close things up here for a day or two. That's final. I'll call you tonight and report."

"I'm still going."

"Maybe you don't care for this job?"

"To hell with it," Wige answered with a level stare. "I'm as sorry as you that Miss Delaine was injured. But if you make one more crack about my brother not being worth it . . . you won't be able to make the trip Unless somebody carries you."

Dennison met Wige's stare unflinchingly. He gave a short laugh and turned away with a shrug.

"All right, big boy," he returned carelessly, "If it's like that, you'd better come along with us. You'll be saving time."

The accident happened at the gates of the Siloam Springs sanitarium.

Tired by driving, Carol slowed her car and joined Charlie in viewing the attractive scene on their left.

"And here we are!" Carol announced happily. "Isn't it beautiful?"

"Looks nice." There was a shade of apprehension in the boy's voice. Already he was wondering what they were going to "do" to him here, recalling he would be left among strangers for the first time in his life. In some particulars, Charlie had not kept pace with the years following his misfortune. Still something of a child. Utter dependence upon others had done that for him.

Thrilled and excited, Carol relaxed her vigilance for a second, and swung sharply to enter the high iron gates across the road. It all was confusion after that She recalled dimly the raucous blast of a horn, the too-late glance at her mirror revealing a big truck already against her car it seemed. She even saw the white unshaven face of its driver. She did not know that she wrenched at her wheel frantically, or that she tried to throw herself in front of Charlie to protect him.

There was a crash. Carol's little car shot into dark space. That was all.

* * *

The truck dragged to a stop. Its driver and a companion scrambled down into the road and ran back to the coupe, the left side of which was crushed. It was but the work of an instant to draw Carol's limp figure from the wreck and lay her on the grass at the side of the highway. Charlie was conscious, but white and shaken.

"Hurt, bub?" the driver demanded. Then as the boy shook his head in a bewildered fashion. his rescuer seemed to take in the situation. "Lame, eh? Just a second. I'll help you out . . . easy now." He lowered the boy to the running board. "Sure you're not hurt?"

Charlie made no answer, only pointed to Carol over whom the other man was leaning. He saw the boy's agonized expression.

"She isn't dead, son. Don't seem to be cut, either. What the hell was she trying to do . . . turning across us and never putting out her mitt?"

"Makin' for the hospital with the kid," the driver guessed. "I'll back along side and we'll take 'em in. This is just goin' to be fine! No witnesses . . ." He started for his machine on the run.

Charlie spoke unexpectedly, with a great effort.

"It wasn't your fault," he said. "Please hurry!"

"Hope you don't change your mind," the other man grumbled. He picked Carol up as easily as though she had been a child and waited for the backing truck to come to a stop. "Pull out those rear stakes and I'll pass this dame to you, Pete," he suggested as the driver appeared on the scene again. "Lucky we're empty. Lay her out flat . . . I'll bring the kid. We got to make it snappy."

At the hospital, Charlie acted with unexpected composure. He identified himself and Carol and asked whether somebody would call his brother at Jericho and tell him what had happened. He saw Carol wheeled away hastily, then was forced to undergo an examination on his own account. He was much comforted when a nurse told him that his call had been put through. The doctors weren't sure how badly the young lady was hurt. She was still unconscious. Mr. Lennon was coming.

* * *

When Dennison, with Wige for a passenger, brought his roadster to a stop in front of the Steel home, Andy was waiting on the porch. He had the collar of his coat turned up and was puffing on a cigar. As soon as he recognized the car he picked up a small bag from the floor and hurried down to the gate.

"Quick work," was his only greeting as he settled in the corner of the wide seat, his bag on his lap. When they had left the town, he spoke again, brusquely.

"Wige, you didn't hold out on me, did you?"

"No, sir. I told you all I heard."

"Thanks."

The plane was waiting on the runway with its propeller idling, the pilot lounging against the fuselage as though there were nothing unusual about the unexpected trip. Wige tried to assume a similar attitude, but he was thrilled by the prospect of his first flight. He doubted very much whether Andy ever had been up, either It was an old story to Dennison.

That young man followed the pilot into the plane and slipped down in the front seat beside him, calling out to the other two passengers to come along. Andy took his place behind Dennison and Wige sat behind Bill Taylor, the pilot, who already was speeding up his motor. There was a growing roar, then someone slammed the door and the little cabin was strangely quiet.

Wige scarcely knew when the wheels gave their last upward heave from the runway. Now he saw the ground dropping. The plane banked in a curve, straightened out and continued its climb at increased speed. The familiar line of hills east of town slipped past the wing tip and were gone.

The valley looked like a map with its checkerboard fields, tree clumps casting long shadows. The plane seemed suspended, with the panorama sliding back beneath him. Wige always fancied that flying brought a sense of rushing through space. Not at all like this.

* * *

He glanced at Dennison to discover him staring moodily through the shining disc made by the propeller. His thoughts were on something ahead. Carol? Perhaps he was harboring unpleasant intentions in regard to Wige, a suggestion that brought a grim little smile to the latter's face. If he remembered the scene in the office correctly, he had threatened his boss. He didn't regret it. But he'd be having small respect for himself if he let any man get away with an insinuation like that. Probably Dennison would give him his notice as soon as they returned to Jericho. Those new helpers would soon be showing up now.

Now for some reason the whole matter seemed unimportant. The main thing was to assure himself that Charlie really was unhurt and that Carol—He took his eyes from Dennison and looked at little Andy Delaine. He was staring out the window, too, but Wige sensed that the scenery had no attraction for him if he so much as saw it. His heart and mind were miles ahead of the speeding ship—with Carol. It was tough on Andy. After all, he had no one but Carol. If she—But Wige wouldn't let himself think of that. Queer that the fellow who called from the Springs couldn't have told him a little more about Carol. But they probably hadn't had a chance to find out how serious it was. If the worst had happened they'd certainly have broken the news.

It was dark when the pilot located the field he was looking for, on the outskirts of a small city a few miles beyond the Springs. Within a minute from the time he had set his plane on the ground and taxied in the direction of the field's one hangar, Dennison was making inquiries about a car to take them to the sanitarium.

That trip also was made in silence.

Arrived at the entrance to the main building, André Delaine strode in ahead of his younger companions, located what appeared to be an information window and hurried to it. Before the woman behind the grille had time to utter more than a pleasant good evening, he was explaining his errand.

"My name is Delaine. My daughter was injured in an accident at your front gate a few hours ago. Tell me exactly how she is. And where." Wige and Chester were on either side of him now, listening eagerly.

"Oh, yes. Of course. I'll ask Doctor Stephens to step in here from the office." She relented when she saw the appeal in Andy's blue eyes. "The news isn't bad," she told him gently. "I may tell you that much."

Dr. Stephens, a stout little man with a good-humored, round face, appeared in the corridor a few minutes later.

"Good evening, gentlemen," he smiled. "If you will just step across into the reception room I will give you all the information at my disposal. And you may set your fears at rest regarding your daughter," he told Andre. "I am glad to say that she suffered no serious injury, external or internal. I can give you the same assurance regarding the boy who was with her. Both suffered slightly from shock. Miss Delaine was unconscious for a time due to a blow near the temple. She evidently struck her head against the car. Does that make you feel better, sirs?"

"Man, yes!" Andre suddenly looked white and shaken.

"Very narrow escape," the doctor resumed brightly. "They tell me the lady's car was nearly demolished. Of course you want to see her. No reason why you shouldn't. Are these . . . er . . . gentlemen members of the family?"

"Not quite." Andre's smile flickered. "This man." He indicated Wige—"This is Mr. Lennon. The boy with my daughter is his brother."

"May I see him?" Wige demanded eagerly. "He sent for me."

"Naturally. Come along with us. I'll have somebody take you to your brother's room." The doctor glanced questioningly at Chester.

"I'm the innocent bystander," the latter said grimly. "Do you mind dropping back here when you can, Andy, and letting me hear about Carol?"

"Sure, Chet, sure. I won't keep you waiting long."

It was more than a half hour later when Andy entered the reception room, walking slowly, head bent. Chester sprang to his feet in alarm and went to meet him.

"She . . . she isn't worse is she, Andy?"

"No. Aside from a bit of plaster she looks as if nothing had happened. A little upset for the minute when she saw me. Naturally, she keeps thinking about that kid . . . if anything had happened after she virtually ran off with him,"

"No chance of my getting a peek at her tonight I suppose. Does she know I'm here?"

"Yes. Yes, I told her that."

"Maybe you'd better let me have it." Chester straightened his broad shoulders, waited. There was commiseration in Andy's blue eyes.

"The car still out front?" he inquired evasively.

"I told the fellow to wait."

"Then why don't you and I run back to town? I could do with a couple of jolts about now. I'll set 'em up."

"You mean I'll need a bracer . . . after the jolt."

"Chet . . ." Andy gave his friend's arm a little squeeze. "You're a lad after my own heart, if ever. But women — they're queer,"

"I get it. It's Lennon she wanted to see."

"Sent for him as I came out."

"We're shoving off. Hope you don't mind if I tell you about my great-grandfather . . . how he died with his boots on. It usually comes with the third good drink."

"Stout fella!"

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

RARELY have I been so "flabbergasted," to use the picturesque old-time vocabulary of my good neighbor, Mrs. Ticer, as I was by Noel's speech anticipating the request which I had meant to make of him only after wary and painstaking preparation.

"What—what did you say?" I asked him, sparring for time. I knew that I must change my plan of campaign in a matter of split seconds. I had planned to lead up gradually to the bizarre campaign to which my father wished Noel's consent. Now I must meet the thing head on.

"I think you heard me the first time," he said grimly, with a rudeness utterly foreign to him. "But I'll repeat it. What your father wants is to have Mary keep up this association with Redfield, so that she can get more information concerning his — well, subversive activities. Isn't that right?"

Noel in a Frenzy.

There was nothing to be gained by delay or parrying. I looked him straight in the eyes and tossed my dynamite straight at him.

"Yes, Noel, that is what he wants," I said, then waited for the explosion. I knew better than to add any persuasion or explanation. That must wait until he had exhausted his natural and inevitable reaction to my announcement.

He did not speak at first, and I guessed that his throat was too constricted for coherent utterance. He sprang to his feet and his hands went out in a frenzied gesture in my direction, the fingers clutching viciously at the air.

For a panic-stricken instant I feared that those fingers were aimed at me. Then, as they seized the top of a chair standing near his and pressed into it, I realized that he simply wanted something upon which he could wreak the fury which possessed him.

Resents Spencer's Request.

A less disciplined man would have picked up the nearest small object and hurled it through the window. But Noel had learned self-control in a hard school, and he stood still, his fingers clutching the chair so hard that his knuckles were knobs with white streaks showing between them, and the veins were like ropes, so dark blue in hue that they were almost black.

"That old man doesn't know what he's asking," he burst forth at length. "Has he lived so long that he's forgotten his youth, when red blood flowed in his veins instead of the ice water that fills them now?

"I'd like to have seen anybody asking him a thing like this when he was young," he went on fiercely; "asking him to stake his own wife out as a decoy to worm information out of a despicable cad like Redfield."

Sees Danger for Mary.

His voice had an overtone of panic when he spoke next after a pause for necessary breath.

"Why, Mary will be in danger of insult, verbal and physical, every minute she's with that swine," he went on. "And if he finds out what she's trying to do, her very life will be in danger. Can't you see that?"

He did not wait for me to answer him, but rushed on swiftly, fright and fury in every inflection of his voice, every line of his face.

"Aren't there enough skilled secret service men in this country to deal with Stephen Redfield and his ilk?" he asked, his voice raucous and ragged, "without asking a young wife to use her charm and fascination in finding out what his subversive activities are? And what kind of heel does your father think I am to stand for something that would expose my wife to insult and danger?"

Demands Wariness.

He stopped abruptly, I guessed from sheer lack of breath, and looked insistently at me. I knew that he was demanding an answer from me, in fact, daring me to give a satisfactory argument for my father's request. I also knew that any hope of success for my mission depended upon my wariness, and the manner of my first approach to him.

"Noel," I said quietly at last, guiltily conscious that I was not sure of my premise, "this whole projects rests on your giving or withholding your consent to it. Nothing will be done without your approval. But will you listen to me without comment until I have told you some things I think you should know."

Scholastic Grid Rules Discussed

Coaches Send Changes To Principals' Group.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A decision on whether Ohio's scholastic football teams shall play under a new set of rules next season was in the hands of the high school principals today while the coaching fraternity waged a unified fight for retention of the old standards.

The high school athletic board of control, at an organization meeting here last night, decided to submit to the principals a proposal to adopt national federation interscholastic rules and ordered ballots mailed immediately.

* * *

Buckeye scholastic gridders now are governed by a variation of national intercollegiate rules which Jim Robinson, Canton Lehman mentor and president of the Football Coaches' association, battled to retain.

* * *

Robinson said the association has mailed letters to each member, listing 15 reasons for opposing the rules switch. The main objections to the switch, he said, are that the federation's rule book is improperly codified, and its adoption would enforce scholastic gridders to "unlearn" the rules upon entering college competition.

* * *

H. R. Townsend, state high school athletic commissioner, asserted that the rule change idea was forwarded by the board of control, but added that the board was not recommending its adoption.

* * *

"It is leaving the matter in the hands of the principals," he said.

The High School Athletic association and the board of control are affiliates of the Ohio High School Principals association.

In reorganizing, the board chose L. T. Gray of Tiltonsville to succeed F. L. Kinley of Findlay as president and named A. B. Weiser of Canal Winchester vice president to replace W. F. Hoerner of Versailles. Lloyd M. Kaufman of Attica replaced Kinley as a board member and H. W. Hodson of Wilmington took the place vacated by Hoerner.

Mt. Vernon Trims Galion

Piles Up a 51-19 Score Behind Ransom's Shots.

GALION—Piling up 16 points in the last period, the Yellow Jackets of Mt. Vernon made most of their shots count to win over Galion high school's Orangemen, 51 to 19, on the Galion junior high gym court, last night.

* * *

Starting off with a lead of 10 to 5 in the first quarter, the Yellow Jackets added 15 points in the second period while Galion's quintet made six points.

* * *

Ten more points were added by the visitors in the third quarter, while Galion brought its score up only three more points, the third period closing with 35 for Mt. Vernon to the Orangemen's 13.

* * *

Mt. Vernon's center, Ransom, was high score man of the game, making 12 points. Metzger, Galion's center and captain, scored six points to lead his team.

* * *

Urges Sports to Aid Uncle Sam

ANN ARBOR, Mich — (INS) — Herbert O. Crisler, Michigan's athletic director, has offered the university's athletic department, equipment, and personnel to federal authorities for use in the national emergency.

"All requests by the government concerning our personnel, candidates for teams and equipment will be filled," the Wolverine director and head football coach said, "regardless of how it affects our program."

Crisler said he felt college athletics could contribute to four great needs of the armed forces —material, leadership, morale and physical fitness.

In line with his belief that colleges should expand their physical training program—especially in the light of the present war—Crisler said western conference officials are considering his suggestion that 150-pound football be added to their program. Gridders in this weight class could play the mornings of varsity games under the plan.

Bucks Meet Minnesota

Gophers Favored Over Ohio State In Cage Play.

(By Associated Press)

Ohio State's opening Big Ten battle against Minnesota tonight at Columbus tops an Ohio collegiate basketball program which sends seven other Buckeye squads back onto the courts after a brief holiday.

Coach Harold G Olsen's Buckeyes, winners in two of five preconference starts, were decided underdogs to the powerful Gophers who sailed to five straight victories in warm-up competition.

* * *

The Bucks, soft touches in a three-game tour to the west coast, had proved themselves hard to beat in the State Fair grounds coliseum by downing Kentucky and Great Lakes Naval training station in opening games at home.

* * *

Of the other Buckeye squads in action tonight, six will tangle on Ohio courts and the seventh, Rio Grande, journeys to Salem, W. Va.

Only one perfect record will be at stake. DeSales, unbeaten in two starts, clashes with Lawrence Tech at Toledo.

* * *

Ohio Wesleyan, defeated 72 to 45 by Mount Union last night at Alliance, will be trying for its first win in five starts against Case at Cleveland. Case, likewise, will be striving to enter the victory column, the Scientists having lost two out of two.

Other games pit Hanover against Cincinnati and Ohio U. against Xavier at Xavier

In trouncing Ohio Wesleyan, Mount Union's Purple Raiders chalked up their third straight victory in as many games this season. Charles Joachim, a forward, paced the Raiders with 10 field goals and three free throws for 23 points.

Selby Paces Moose League

Pilgrims Threaten Fellowship Lead.

Pilgrims climbed back into the running for the Moose bowling league leadership last night with a 3-0 victory over Trustees, while the loop-leading Fellowship quintet was winning a 2-1 decision over Managers. Pilgrims now trail by three games.

* * *

Those two bowling buddies, Harold Selby and Henry Michaels, set a torrid pace for the rest of the league. Selby took top total with 658 and high game of 236, while Michaels was close behind with 640 and 234. Ray Shively had a 604 total.

* * *

Pilgrims rolled high game of 923, and Editors had high total of 2634.

Few Banquet Tickets Left

Record Attendance For Grid Event Assured.

With the largest crowd ever to attend The News-Journal's annual banquet for Mansfield high school football teams assured for next Monday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, available tickets for the event today ere rapidly becoming as extinct as the bison or dodo bird.

Fans who put off their banquet ticket shopping until the last minute were apt to find today that the last minute had already passed.

Only a few tickets were still available, and they were ones turned back by purchasers who belatedly discovered they would be unable to attend. So a few lucky fans may still be able to pick up these returned tickets at The News-Journal office.

The dinner is scheduled promptly at 6:30 o'clock.

SOLDIERS PLAYING TIT-TAT-TOE TOURNEY

CAMP CLAIBORNE, La—(INS)—Playoffs have begun at Camp Claiborne in what is believed to be the first "tit-tat-toe' tournament ever staged in the United army.

Members of the service and ammunition battery of the first division are competing in the event, promoted by Sgt. Leslie Ortler, of Minneapolis.

The boys were skeptical at first that the game was proper for soldiers, but were convinced when a pool produced $4.50 for the grand prize.

Shrine Game Played Today

Transplanted East-West Fracas Set In New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Touchdown hungry Sugar Bowl fans, who watched Fordham battle to a grim 2-0 decision over Missouri, headed again for Tulane's big stadium today, hopeful of a scoring spree in the 17th annual East-West Shrine charity all-star game.

The East, led by Virginia's all-America Bill Dudley in the starting backfield and Harvard's Endicott (Chub) Peabody, 2nd, at guard, was an overwhelming favorite. But the West, winner of 10 of the last 16 contests, looked powerful enough to take care of itself.

* * *

Pacing the West's backfield was Stanford's Frankie Albert, twice all-America, while the starting lineup included two more all-America's, Bob Reinhard of California at tackle and Mal Kutner of Texas at end.

* * *

The East had the edge in big-name players, with all-Americas Ralph Fife of Pittsburgh as reserve guard, and Bruce Smith of Minnesota as alternate in the backfield. Coached by crafty Bernie Bierman of Minnesota and Andy Kerr of Colgate, the East squad wound up practice yesterday with heavy emphasis on pass-defense.

* * *

Western representatives, who have trained at Baton Rouge, La., for 10 days under Biff Jones of Nebraska and Babe Hollingberry of Washington, arranged to come into town just before game time. They were expected to mix their running attack with liberal doses of air bombardment.

* * *

Railbirds looked for the Eastern team to capitalize on the ball-carrying ability of Bob Westfall of Michigan, Dudley and Smith, with Dudley probably doubling for the aerial offensive. The Virginian led the nation last fall in total yardage from rushing and passing.

Between 40,000 and 50,000 persons were expected for the kickoff at 2 p. m. (CST).

Rally After Bad Start To Swamp Akron West

Rubber City Quintet Held To One Point In 2nd Quarter, 3 In 3rd

AKRON WEST'S COWBOYS staged a four-minute bucketball rodeo last night at the high school gym, and then joined the spectators as Coach Vern Hoffman's tempestuous Tygers went on the tear to turn in their third victory of the season, 39-22, before a surprisingly big holiday crowd.

It was "ride 'em Cowboy," for those first four minutes as a dusky plainsman named Ed Finney roped the doggie for eight points and paced the Westerners to a 10-3 lead.

* * *

But that was the end of the wild west show. The Tygers weren't ready to play doggie for anybody, and they turned on the cattle punchers with a fury that unmounted the sagebrush scientists in a hurry, and left them chap-happy for the rest of the evening.

* * *

In the next three minutes Mansfield not only recovered from its early bewilderment, the Tygers surged back to take the lead at 11-10. The quarter mark found the visitors ahead for the last time at 12-11.

The Westerners really should have paid admission to see the show in the second period. They tallied only one point, and that came on a free toss by an Armenian named Movsesian just 20 seconds before the half was over.

* * *

Meanwhile Joe Romano had placed Mansfield in the lead to stay with an under-bucket shot early in the period, and the half found the Tygers boasting an 18-13 advantage.

* * *

West showed signs of wishing to participate in the proceedings in the third quarter, chalking up three complete points, but it was in that same stanza that the Tygers won the ball game as they increased their lead to 30-16.

Finney started West away to a four-point lead with a pair of free shots and a short one-hander before Bob Winbigler made the first of his 15 points for the evening on a free shot.

Pappas hooped a long shot for West. Paul Dietzel missed a charity toss but Winbigler followed it in for two points. Finney dribbled in for a bucket, and then got two free points, and West was out in front 10-3.

* * *

Then the Tygers got started. Jack Shiplet drove to the circle for a one-hander, and then made good on the second of a pair of free shots. Shiplet dribbled to the corner for another one-handed shot, Robinson tallied on a free toss, and Winbigler scored under the hoop to put Mansfield out in front 11-10.

* * *

Two points on a trio of free tosses by Mann gave West the lead again at 12-11 at the quarter.

On a fast break, Joe Romano sank a push-up shot under the hoop. Krupp got a free point. Shiplet missed a free shot. Winbigler hooped a one-hander from the circle. Dietzel got a follow shot. Movsesian and Romano each missed free tosses. And then with 20 seconds to go, Movsesian got West's only point of the period on a free toss. The score at the half was Mansfield 18, West 13.

Daniel missed a free shot. So did Romano, but Joe followed in for two points. On an out-of-bounds play, Winbigler caged a one-hander from the side. Mann got a free point. Dietzel made good on the first of a pair of free tosses. Shiplet also got a free point and it was 24-14. Movsesian got Akron's only bucket of the period, a one-hander from the circle.

* * *

Dietzel chucked a pair of free tosses. Winbigler tallied on a one-hander from the side, and Dietzel scored under the hoop to make the third quarter score 30-16.

* * *

Kalaman missed a free shot but Mann followed it in for a bucket. Winbigler hooped a long shot. Hahn sank the second of a pair of free shots. Wigley missed a charity toss. Finney sank two quick longies. Winbigler also connected on a long heave. Romano scored under the bucket, and after Finney missed a free shot, Robinson ended the scoring at 39-22 by driving under the hoop for a bunny.

RESERVES EDGED

A shot under the hoop by Gage in the last 10 seconds of play gave Ontario's Warriors a 35-33 victory over Coach Vere Smith's Tyger reserves in the opener.

* * *

The reserves got away to an 18-7 lead in the first period, but weakened by the loss of Baker, who hadn't quite recovered from a recent illness, they saw that margin cut to 20-16 at the half.

* * *

Ontario went out in front 29-24 at the third quarter mark but the reserves tied it up in the last minute only to be taken on Gage's 10-second shot.

BASEBALL PLAYER HURT IN ACCIDENT

THOMASVILLE, N. C. — (AP) — Roland Vann Harrington, 22-year-old shortstop who played with Indianapolis, and Birmingham, Ala., last season, was severely injured when a dye vat at a knitting mill exploded here. He suffered burns and internal injuries.

OHIOAN RANKED

PATERSON, N. J. — (INS) — Lem Franklin, Cleveland negro heavyweight was ranked second behind Billy Conn in the National Boxing association's quarterly ring ratings today. Franklin, along with Conn and Buddy Baer, was ranked as a logical contender for Joe Louis' crown.

BABE RUTH GOES TO HOSPITAL IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK — (AP) — Babe Ruth, baseball's former home run king, was taken to a hospital from his Riverside drive apartment early today in a private ambulance.

He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, who later said he had been taken to an unnamed hospital for a "routine checkup."

The apartment house doorman said, however, that Ruth had been carried to the ambulance on a stretcher and appeared to be "a very sick man."

"Woods and Waters"

By YUNCKER BROS.

Dynamite eating deer are common in the Adirondacks, the state conservation department reports. The sound of blasting seems to attract the animals, instead of frightening them, and both bucks and does seem to know they will find the explosive on road-building jobs. It is believed that the deer relish the dynamite because of the saltpeter it contains.

Since last October an unusually large number of snowy owls, whose natural home is in the Arctic, have been flying southward, and have been reported from Put-In-Bay, and elsewhere in northern Ohio. The food of the snowy owl is mice, rats and other small mammals. Such food becomes scarce in the Arctic about every four years, and it is thought that this scarcity causes these occasional wholesale flights southward.

The duck called the scoter is the champion deep diver. It has a massive bone structure, and coarse feathers set in tough skin, built for deep plunges. Scoters have been taken in nets 50 to 100 feet down.

The sportsman, the farmer, anyone who requires a good, dependable lantern will find the Coleman Floodlight Lantern ideal. It gives a fine, white light almost like daylight, is instant-lighting, storm proof, safe, and burns 30 hours for a dime. Let Yuncker's show you these modern, efficient lanterns.

Walleyes are so cannibalistic that fry only a few days old try to swallow their fellows. They are sometimes found forming a chain of three or four, each determined to bolt down the one ahead of him, tail first.

A huge black bear in Michigan killed an 800 pound bull, chased farmers near St. Nicholas, that state, and foiled state game officers who tried to trap it. They got two of his toes, and no more.

Last June lightning struck a large hemlock tree about 150 feet from the rearing pond of a federal fish hatchery, at Cortland, N. Y. Right afterward a number of adult trout were seen to be stunned, and swam about crazily. Some soon recovered, but others died. Autopsies revealed hemorrhages of brain and gills, and distended auricles.

Lady Patricia, an Idaho Irish setter, performed a feat as remarkable as quintuplets in a human family, by producing 18 living, healthy pups. Nursed in shifts by the mother and by bottle, all were going strong at last reports. Dog authorities say this is the largest litter ever known to outlive a week.

BLUE COLLARS FOR WHITE.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Salesmen, bank tellers, teachers, lawyers and clerks are going mechanical. The high wages paid in the defense production areas are attracting a wide variety of white collar workers, according to the Metropolitan Technical School of New York.

RUSHED TO FIREMEN

ALPENA, Mich. —(U.P.)— Ray Bushey reversed the usual procedure and brought the fire to the firemen. He smelled smoke as he was driving through the town and suspected his car was on fire. Instead of stopping to turn in an alarm, Bushey raced to the fire station. Firemen opened the trunk and extinguished a blaze.
